Employment Problem
Better Brains
Everybody Happy
Pity Poor China

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S forceful address to nearly 400 industrial leaders in Washington yesterday is one for which the country will thank him. It is bound to produce results.

But well informed men know that there has been a sharp increase in unemployment.

We here in the United States actually have as many unemployed as there are in Britain, where unemployment gets a "dole," causing it to live on each week those out of work.

We have here 2,000,000 more employed than they have in Britain, where unemployment is actually unknown.

And this is surprising in the richest, most prosperous country on earth.

Professor Von Economo tells other scientists at Columbia College medical center that man's brain is improving, developing more. And the superman, mentally speaking, is coming.

The learned Von Economo believes that "new organisms of thought" may develop in the course of evolution.

Studying the empty skull of a modern man, comparing with the skull of a pre-historic man, shows extraordinary development.

There is every reason to be hopeful. Twelve thousand years ago men were in the Late Stone Age. We have done a great deal in 12,000 years. The life of men on earth is only starting. The earth will last for hundreds of millions of years. Science proves it.

Something ought to be done in that time.

It would interest and, possibly frighten us, if we could know what we shall look like at the end of the first hundred million years.

Man, perhaps, will be an enormous head, round and smooth, traveling at will through the air, talking to other planets, with this earth transformed into one big garden, machinery doing all the work, nobody trying to cheat anybody else, nobody trying to pile up money selfishly and more than a man today would seek to accumulate salt water with the ocean full of it.

The learned professor even finds that future man may be born with a brain sufficiently developed to understand Einstein's relativity theory at sight.

It would not be necessary then for a philosopher to die as the great Hegel died, according to Haines's description, saying, "Only one man has ever understood me," and adding after a pause, "and even he did not understand me."

Secretary of State Stimson considers the incident of our appeal to Russia closed, thinks "our aims are achieved."

A cheerful speaking for Russia: "Russia will not yield one inch" and defies the United States.

Both sides seem to be happy.

On this side, some cannot understand why it was necessary for our government to tell Russia what to do. Why were we chosen to pull the chestnuts out of the fire for France and Great Britain?

Britain is negotiating friendly treaties with Russia.

Representations concerning China would have come with much better grace from one of those countries than from this country, which, with its nose in the air, refuses to recognize the Russian government.

What influence, under those conditions, persuaded Uncle Sam to play the part of the monkey in the fable pulling out the chestnuts?

Shanghai sends news of Chinese soldiers, tens of thousands, in mutiny, looting a city, and fleeing with much needed railroad stock.

Modern weapons, modern Russian teachings, and the attempt to establish modern democratic government have not worked well in a country unprepared for those things.

Martial law was declared in Haiti yesterday, following widespread strikes that began with a strike of school teachers.

The local gendarmerie are commanded by officers of our marine corps.

The President's message announced a desire if possible, to withdraw our soldiers from Haiti.

There seems slight chance of withdrawal now. Let us hope Russia won't write and tell us what we ought to do about it.

Hearing on Warrants for Operators of "Onlywon" Pool Sought Today

Oliver B. Garrett, deposed head of the police liquor squad and retired as mentally irresponsible, is the center of a new police controversy.

He is linked with the sponsorship of the mysterious "Onlywon" pool and, while police and federal authorities maintained a negative attitude when asked for statements, reports persisted that he is a source of friction between them.

The controversy was said to involve connection of a former police official and a well-known sporting character, with the "Onlywon" pool, thousands of tickets of which were seized in a raid on a Hanover st. printing plant.

WARRANTS ASKED TODAY

Sergt. Benjamin Wall of Division 2 today in Municipal court sought an appointment for a hearing on an application for a warrant for the operators of the lottery.

It was understood he was advised the hearing would be granted and instructed to notify those to be charged with promoting the lottery so that they may appear in court tomorrow with counsel.

Wall, who with Special Officers Louis Morton and Herbert Schultz arrested two men in a raid on the Hanover st. printing plant of the lottery and seized tickets and other paraphernalia, later today went into conference with Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley.

No information was forthcoming at the time in regard to the nature of this conference, but it was assumed to be in connection with further prosecutions in the lottery case.

The rumors of police dissension became more persistent when it was revealed that Garrett, permitted to retire from the police department under pension because of injuries at a time when he was scheduled to appear before a trial board, had recently obtained life insurance.

WILSON'S COMENT.

Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson's comment on the lottery story was brief.

"As far as the particular lottery referred to is concerned," he said, "arrests were made and the defendants brought before the court. One stood trial. The other defaulted. That's all I know about the case other than a report has been filed in regular routine manner."

Asst. U. S. Atty. Hubert Thomson denied reports of friction between federal and civil authorities.

"To date," he said, "I have had the co-operation of the State au-

PASSENGER IS HERO OF BUS CRASH

Palmer, Dec. 6—A coast-to-coast bus containing four passengers and a driver, skidding on an icy stretch of the Boston road four miles east of here today, plunged down an embankment into the Quaboag river.

Three of the passengers and the driver were injured. They were rescued from the partly submerged bus by the fourth passenger and several motorists.

The injured, all taken to Wing Memorial Hospital, were:

Fred D. Thayer of Worcester.

Leo Russeau of Brooklyn.

Warren Higgins of 1774 Center st., West Roxbury, the driver.

The fourth passenger was Dan Pradvita of 68 Cedar st., Roxbury.

The bus, traveling toward Boston, was owned by the Colonial Motor Coach Co. of Watertown, N. Y. Its rear half was submerged. Had it remained upright in hurtling down the embankment it would probably have been completely submerged and its occupants drowned.

Nazarian, the wrestler, is also known as Nazar.

Auto Prince's Sea Palace May Be Total Loss on Rock

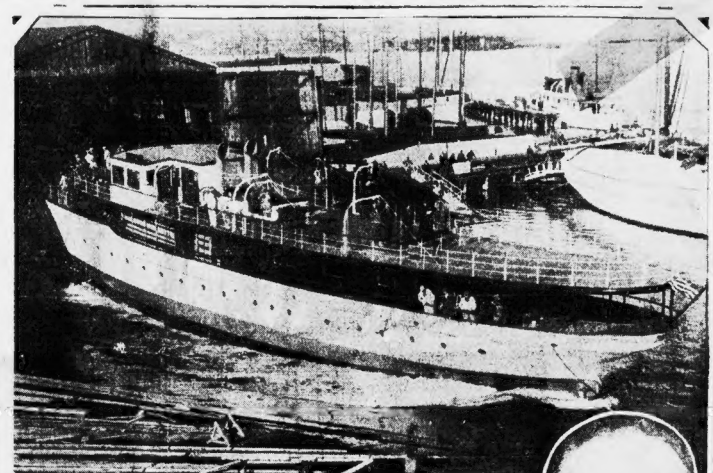

Photo shows the Sialia, $300,000 yacht of Edsel Ford, being launched on Nov. 16 at Lawley's shipyard, Neponset. Today the costly craft was piled up near Hen and Chicken light off Vineyard Haven, and she may be a total loss. Seventeen persons were rescued, two injured, by the coast guard. Inset shows Edsel Ford.

17 RESCUED, 2 HURT, ON $300,000 CRAFT

Crew and Six Guests on the Maiden Cruise Saved From Peril Off New Bedford

New Bedford, Dec. 6—Out of a party of eight boatsmen, newspaper reporters and photographers attempting to reach the wreck of Edsel Ford's power yacht on Old Cock Ledge, a man named Berger was drowned today and two others suffered from immersion and are in a critical condition. These two were Clifford Kilburn and Mac Chapman, both of New Bedford. All three were swept overboard while transferring from a power boat into a dory.

New Bedford, Dec. 6—On her maiden voyage with six guests and a crew of 17, Edsel Ford's new $300,000 power yacht Sialia I, was wrecked today on Old Cock Ledge, east of Hen and Chickens Lightship off this port.

[illegible] boat, with heavy seas breaking over her, her passengers and crew were rescued from their precarious position by a Coast Guard patrol. Two of her crew were injured and all were landed here.

Another patrol boat stood by the stricken craft, which was believed to be breaking up.

By command of Capt. Oscar Anderson, the Sialia I sailed yesterday for Long Island City from the shipyard of George Lawley & Son, Neponset, where she was launched Nov. 16. The passengers were men who had a part in her designing or construction. No member of the Ford family was aboard.

WENT THROUGH CANAL.

The yacht passed through the Cape Cod canal late yesterday afternoon and at 1 o'clock this morning, in a moderately heavy sea, drove on the ledge reef marked by Old Cock beacon and the Hen and Chickens light.

The impact tore a huge hole through the yacht's bottom amidships and the seas poured into her engine room. Albert Herd, crew member, had both hands crushed in a davit as she struck.

The Sialia I wedged hard upon the ledge and remained there. Had she been less securely grounded she would have pulled back and sunk.

NO RADIO ABOARD.

With no radio aboard Capt. Anderson ordered distress calls sent up and two hours later the watch of the Boston-bound S. S. George Washington of the Eastern Steamship New York-Boston service sighted the flares.

The George Washington by wireless advised the American Radio Corporation station at Chatham. The operator there in turn communicated with the Woods Hole coast guard station.

Woods Hole station immediately dispatched the G 287 and 281, 75-foot patrol boat, the former in charge of Chief Boatswain Gordon Asbury.

The 287 was alongside the Ford yacht before daybreak, and shortly after 7 o'clock passengers and crew were transferred.

NOTABLES ABOARD.

The passengers included Edward Whiting of Quincy, chief electrician of Lawley's; S. B. Gage of Quincy, another Lawley technician; Alexander Shopin of New York, ship architect; John Calisis of New York, decorator; E. R. Gibbs of New York, and a man named Ford of New York, said to be no relation to the owner.

Besides Capt. Anderson, whose

Vare and Wilson Both Barred From Senate

Washington, Dec. 6 (AP)—Excluding Senator-elect William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, from membership, the Senate today left the seat vacant by then refusing to declare his Democratic opponent in the 1926 election, William B. Wilson, elected.

The vote to exclude Vare was 58 to 22. The vote against Wilson was 66 to 15.

The vote on the Norris resolution to exclude Vare was opposed only by Republicans. On the other hand, 25 Republicans, 22 Democrats and one Farmer Labor voted to bar him.

The two roll calls in quick succession ended the three-year-old senatorial controversy which has cost the Government almost $200,000 to investigate.

First the Senate down were 11 nally and definitely barred to Vaveteran Philadelphia Republican leade... on account of his expenditure of more than $780,000, and charges of fraud in his race for the Republican senatorial nomination in 1926.

Then the Senate adopted a resolution declaring that Wilson, who in the 1926 general election had failed to receive a plurality of the legally cast votes for the seat.

Vare was in the chamber at the time of the vote. He occupied a seat in the front row on the Republican side. In the gallery were his wife and two daughters.

On the roll call Senator Gillett of Massachusetts voted for Vare and Senator Walsh of Massachusetts against him.

Fuller 'Laughs Off' a Washburn Attack

"Some time since, one Harry Canter, plain citizen, said of Alvan T. Fuller, who was then Governor, 'He is the murderer of Sacco and Vanzetti.'

"Canter is now serving one year at Deer Island.

"The Supreme Court has ruled in the Canter case that the English language is to be interpreted literally.

Gov. Ritchie Barred at Tremont Temple

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, whose name was strongly mentioned in connection with the presidential Democratic nomination in the last election, has been refused the use of Tremont Temple to deliver an address on prohibition.

Atty. William H. Mitchell of 44 School st., chairman of the Liberal Civic League, under whose auspices the Maryland governor will speak in Boston, Tuesday evening, received a letter from F. F. Plympton, superintendent of Tremont Temple, refusing the use of the building.

The letter to Atty. Mitchell follows:

"Upon further consideration of your application to use Tremont Temple for a public meeting in the interests of repealing the so-called Baby Volstead Act, I am quite convinced that the clientele of Tremont Temple would wholly disapprove of my permitting the use of our hall for such a purpose.

"In my opinion a proper procedure to change the Constitution is all right, but to make it much easier for the bootlegger and the criminal element to violate the law of the land by removing any machinery for enforcement of the law is quite another matter."

Instead of speaking in Tremont Temple, as originally intended, Governor Ritchie will speak in Symphony hall.

Atty. Mitchell said that although Governor Frank G. Allen and Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols had deemed invitations to be present at the address,

QUICK TARIFF ACTION NEEDED IN BUSINESS BOOM, LEADERS SAY

8 GROUPS TO SPEND 19 BILLIONS

Congress Urged to Relieve Industries of Tariff "Uncertainty"

By M. L. RAMSAY
Universal Service

Washington, Dec. 6—Expenditure of more than $19,000,000,000 by and through American industries next year, helping to keep business and employment steady and headed forward, was forecast to President Hoover in the greatest gathering of organized business the country ever has known.

This vast program was presented before 800 outstanding industrial and business leaders of the country, meeting to carry on the President's program for business stabilization and progress, and to create a temporary organization extending it to every industry and every community.

The sum represents the indicated expenditures, so far as they were stated, of eight important industrial groups. For a host of others no such figures were available.

Loud applause greeted several demands that Congress pass a tariff bill without further delay, to relieve business of "uncertainty." Gen. Otto H. Falk, president of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co., for the machinery industry, declared no other single thing would be more helpful.

"PORK," HIS KEYNOTE

The President opened the conference with a robust message of confidence and action. "Be keynote was "pork." Beyond that all his emphasis was on economic planning, instead of mere drifting.

In the spacious auditorium of the United States Chamber of Commerce he faced captains and kings of finance, transportation, utilities, manufacturing and merchandising representing an aggregate of business wealth and mental and physical resources beyond calculation.

From a microphone before him his sober but aggressive counsel to the whole business world went out, through 46 broadcasting stations, to every corner of the land.

Recognizing some unemployment, some reduction in the demand for luxury and semi-necessity goods, and much "undue pessimism" and uncertainty in the wake of the stock market panic the President said:

"The cure for such storms is action. The cure for unemployment is to find jobs."

He found a "universal response" to the corrective measures already launched and projected, with the construction and maintenance "balance wheel" already assured of greater activity next year than this.

AGAINST WAGE CUTS

Business laid its cards on the table as never before. The quantity of orders expected, their general nature, wages and even prices were discussed with marked frankness.

Industry after industry registered an assurance that there would be no wage reductions. President James A. Farrell of the U. S. Steel Corporation, proclaimed that the steel industry would prevent any company within its ranks that attempted a wage cut from making it effective.

Intense interest in the business program was evidenced by the attendance of 300 more industrial and trade leaders than the Chamber of Commerce had invited.

Big elements in the programs of expenditure announced were:

Railroads—$3,350,000,000.
Electric utilities—$2,100,000,000.
Construction—$8,000,000,000.
Meat packing—$2,000,000,000.
Steel—$100,000,000.
Oil—$500,000,000.
Chemicals—$350,000,000.
Coal—$44,000,000.

The railroad and electric programs, more up-to-date and detailed than those previously submitted to the President at the White House, embrace not only their project construction and betterments, but their wage payments and other outlays for operation and maintenance.

WILL HELP FARMERS

Only expansion and improvement programs and the like are included for the steel, chemical, and coal industries. Of the estimated meat packing outlay approximately $2,000,000,000 will be paid to farmers and others for livestock, $500,000,000 will be spent for supplies, and $50,000,000 for wages.

HUB MAN SEES GAINS

A great expansion program for the motion picture industry in the first six months of next year was announced by Will H. Hays, its "Czar." Large increase will be made in the number of employees and in the outlay in all departments of the business, Hays said. He declared picture attendance was running 25 per cent ahead of last year.

F. S. Snyder of Boston, chairman of the Institute of Meat Packers assured the conference his industry was in a healthy condition and future prospects are "fairly good."

Tobacco sales are continuing the steady increase which has been evident for more than a year, and they have shown no sign of a recession due to the stock market, Clar'es Dunhkind of New York, counsel for the Tobacco Merchants' Association of the United States, reported.

Consumption of tobacco products increased nearly 10 per cent in the six months ended October 31, over the same period last year, Dunkind said.

thorities. There is no friction whatsoever between us. They have furnished me any information I requested, even to the extent of assigning men to come here and give me information." He added that Boston police were included in his reference to State detectives.

ACTED ON DOCTOR'S REPORT

Asked if he knew that Garrett had been accepted as a good risk by a life insurance company which had issued a $5000 policy to him, Commissioner Wilson said:

"I have heard that such is the case, but I have no evidence. You must remember that Dr. Bailey of the health department reported to me on October 17, I believe, that Garrett was not able to perform police duty. I believe that Dr. Bailey made two examinations. One was at his office, which was attended by newspaper photographers and by Garrett's own doctor.

"I believe that Dr. Bailey made another examination, but when or where are matters about which I have no information. Dr. Bailey made but one report to me. That is absolutely so, and I had no other alternative than to approve the petition for retirement upon a pension. A year must elapse before Garrett can be re-examined.

GET INSURANCE

"Then it will be done by three doctors of the retirement board. I have no power to order a reexamination before a year elapses."

It was learned that after a careful examination by the most competent of physicians, Garrett was issued an insurance policy on Oct. 5. Asked about injuries he was reported to have received when thrown from a sulky during a horse race at the Weymouth Fair, the former policeman replied that he "did not sustain a scratch."

And yet Garrett, awaiting a hearing before a police trial board on charges of disobedience, was permitted to retire on a $30 a month pension on the ground he was mentally irresponsible from injuries received in the line of duty.

Dr. Frederick J. Bailey of the health department, when asked for a statement on the insurance company's action, said there is a great difference between examinations of applicants for insurance and of policemen seeking a pension.

The question of Garrett's mental condition was raised yesterday in Suffolk Superior Court when Albert K. Sidlinger, serving a two-year sentence for anticipation in the "shakedown" of John F. Sullivan, former proprietor of the Hotel Ritz, asked for a new trial. He charges that Garrett was mentally irresponsible at the time he testified in the trial of Sidlinger, and that he committed perjury.

The "Onlywon" pool first came to public notice when police of Division 2 raided a Hanover street printing shop, seized several sets of tickets and arrested two men.

KNEW POOL SPONSORS

One of the defendants appeared in municipal court and was given a year's suspended sentence. The other defaulted. Judge Frank J. Good asked Sergt. Benjamin Wall if he had been told who were the sponsors of the pool.

"Yes, he told me," replied Wall.

"Have they been arrested?" the court asked.

"No, Your Honor," said Wall. "I have no other evidence."

It was revealed that the federal officials had been watching the printing plant for some time, and were surprised when Wall and his officers stepped in and raided it. The two minor figures were arrested, but a principal whose car the Department of Justice agents had hoped to trail, got away. The federal officials are still seeking evidence that the pool was conducted interstate, but thus far without success.

Dowling, chairman of the Boston Finance Commission.

"He also said of National Committeeman Liggett, 'he is the assassin of former Postmaster Baker.'

"Fuller is still at large."

The statement of Washburn was read to Mr. Fuller over the telephone. Mr. Fuller laughed and said he would be available in 10 minutes and indicate whether he cared to make any comment. An attempt to reach Mr. Fuller at the end of the allotted time was met with the information that the former Governor had left his office.

Meantime, the drive to oust Louis K. Liggett from the office of national committeeman gave evidence today of being in full force.

Reports, well authenticated, have it that John Richardson, Hoover's spokesman in Massachusetts during the presidential campaign, is being groomed for Liggett's place.

Richardson, it is said, would be acceptable to Mr. Fuller and would also please the dry wing of the Republican party, especially the women, who have declared war on Liggett for his wet utterances.

That Liggett will fight to the last ditch was indicated today when he was asked if he had any intention of resigning.

"That is the last thing I'm thinking about," he replied.

NEW TOMB FOR FR. POWER IN MALDEN

Body of Priest to Be Moved to More Elaborate Grave, the Reports Declare

With workmen engaged in a spot just in front of the chapel and with all officials and employees maintaining unbroken silence, understanding persisted today that a vault to hold the body of Fr. Patrick J. Power is being constructed in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

The understanding is that Fr. Power's body will be removed from its present site, which more than 1,000,000 pilgrims visited in a month, to the new site on the slope in front of All Souls' Chapel.

Last week, while all but workers and persons connected with funerals were barred from the cemetery, surveyors were glimpsed inside the gates in the vicinity of the chapel.

It is believed now that the surveyors were engaged in some project in connection with the report of new grave.

One lone pilgrim, a gypsy woman, who gave her name as Millis Adams of Washington, arrived at the cemetery today. She rode from Boston in a taxicab and when refused admittance knelt for a few minutes at the gate, then departed. She said she suffered from asthma.

The belief that the body would be moved persisted in the minds of many persons throughout Greater Boston today, despite the denial of Supt. Edward J. O'Connell of the cemetery that any such removal is contemplated.

Supt. O'Connell also said that no definite time had been set for reopening of the cemetery to the public.

He had been told of a rumor that it would be reopened next Sunday, which is the Feast of the Immaculate Conception as well as the anniversary of the death of Fr. Power and the birthday anniversary of Cardinal O'Connell.

The Rev. Patrick J. Walsh, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Malden, who has been prominent in connection with the rush of pilgrims to Fr. Power's grave, declared today that he had heard nothing with regard to the reopening of the cemetery or the removal of the body.

Today two policemen were on duty at the cemetery and one of them said he was under orders to arrest any person who persisted in loitering at the gates.

One policeman, a mounted state trooper, was on duty inside the cemetery gate, and the only special Malden officer, was stationed at the cemetery office.

Should a report that the cemetery probably would be reopened, there were few visitors during the day and these appeared to be only casually curious.

None of those who stopped to peer through the fence saw any workmen, 200 yards away in front of the chapel, remained more than a minute or two.

According to the report, which is supposed to have come from an "authoritative source," the new vault to hold Fr. Power's body would be constructed of cement, marble and wrought iron.

The now famous table-monument containing the chalice in which the faithful collects would be part of the vault and the whole would be surrounded by a seven-foot iron fence.

CHINESE YIELD ON TERMS OF PEACE PACT

Mukden Government O. K.'s Preliminary Agreement Reached by Delegates

Hankow, Dec. 6 (AP)—Reports were current here tonight that Nationalist government military leaders in Hunan, Hupeh and Honan provinces, whom the Nationalist authorities have been lauding as loyal supporters of the government are showing unmistakable tendencies toward joining the anti-government legions led by the Fukow militarists.

Mukden, Dec. 6 (AP)—The Mukden political council today dispatched a message to Moscow approving the preliminary agreement reached between Chinese and Russian delegates for the settlement of the Chinese Eastern Railway controversy.

The council decided no longer to oppose Moscow's insistence on the reappointment of Emsh—ff as Eismont, respectively, former manager and assistant manager of the railway, in other capacities. In the conversations at Nikolsk-Ussuriisky, the Chinese delegates had refused to grant this condition and referred the matter to the Mukden Council upon their return here.

The Chinese Council conceded this point in view of the Soviet delegate's promise that the Sino-Russian agreement of 1924 under which the railway was being operated prior to its being taken over by the Chinese last summer, would be fulfilled. This agreement binds Russia not to carry on propaganda work in the railway area.

Leader Says Revolt Is Against Corruption

Nanking, Dec. 6 (AP)—All doubts that the military uprising which began last Tuesday with the mutiny at Pukow was aimed against the Nationalist Government were dispelled this morning when Gen. Shih Yu-Shan, commander of the revolution division, issued a circular telegram from Pangpu explaining the purposes of the revolt.

Gen. Shih said it was aimed directly at Nanking. Recalling his former alliance with the "people's army," which recently abandoned its attack on the Nationalists in Honan and Hupeh provinces, Shih said:

"One year ago I made an alliance with Nanking, due to a desire to see a peaceful country. However, during the past year corruption in the Nationalist Government has been found shocking. Nanking has made no attempt for the relief of the suffring masses."

to that time he was assistant secretary.

Hurley, a lawyer by profession, was one of the men President Hoover drew from the South to place in important posts after his election. He is just under 50 years of age.

The new secretary is a colonel in the Reserve Corps. During the World War he won the distinguished service cross for a volunteer reconnaissance under heavy fire in France.

Hurley, as assistant secretary of war, has been specifically in charge of industrial mobilization. He was appointed to that post early in the Hoover administration.

Word of Hurley's appointment spread quickly to the Capitol. One of the first to comment was Speaker Longworth, who said:

"The news is very pleasing to me, as I have heard nothing but good of him."

GERMAN FEARS YOUNG PLAN WILL FAIL

Warns Against Any Attempts to Tamper With Paris Reparations Pact

Berlin, Dec. 6—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Germany's chief delegate to the conference which framed the Young plan for reparations payments, issued a formal protest against what he said were attempts by creditor states and also by the German government itself, to tamper with that plan. He said these efforts were endangering its success.

In a long memorandum addressed to the German government and to all others concerned, he emphasized that the German delegates signed the Young plan and recommended its adoption on the assumption that it would be respected by all other powers represented at the conference.

Furthermore, he said the signatures were attached with the understanding that the German financial and economic policies would be revised in such a manner as to enable Germany to bear the burdens imposed.

He said these suppositions were not being respected. Although the German delegates did not specifically admit that the total annuities named in the Young plan were bearable by Germany, creditor states were already demanding additional burdens or renunciation.

"I want to address a solemn warning to the world to go back to the Young plan," Dr. Schacht said. "When I signed the Young plan at Paris, I did so because it constituted the maximum of what we would be expected to pay. Also it contains certain possibilities of revision, and the experts from other nations agreed unanimously that the figures in the Young plan represented Germany's maximum paying capacity.

"It is nothing short of criminal for the creditor governments to try now to impose on Germany demands in addition to what we accepted as our maximum, were Germany's maximum. What certain governments are now trying to lay over on us, endangers seriously the entire execution of the Young plan.

"Again I say: 'Back to the Young plan!' That is all."

home is in Detroit, and Herd, who lived in Boston, the following comprised her crew: John Johnson, Charles Ruvark, Ernest Numex and August Stenmark, all of Boston; Fred L. Mattson, Duluth; William Nordquist and Reebert Mucson of New York; John Ostes and F. Larson of Detroit. Which of these, besides Herd, was injured could not be learned.

Landed at New Bedford, none of the passengers or crew members would talk about the accident. Herd was taken to St. Luke's hospital where his injured hands were dressed, and the others went to a local hotel.

It is feared that the Sialia I will be a total loss. A local firm of salvage experts were asked to attempt to save her and decided the job was too big for them. A coast guard cutter may be sent from Boston to place pontoons about the craft and attempt to pull her off.

SCENE OF MANY WRECKS.

Nearly all vessels that have gone ashore at the spot—and there have been many such—have been lost. The rum runner Dorothy Earl struck there two years ago and broke up in a storm shortly afterward.

Although less elaborate than many, the Sialia I was one of the best constructed yachts ever launched on the South Shore. She is 130 feet over all, of 20 foot beam and a draft of seven feet, six inches.

Her fuel supply and two Diesel engines gave her an estimated cruising radius of 3500 miles at a top speed of 14 knots.

Her fittings were complete and from Long Island Sound she was headed for Florida waters, remaining there during the winter and coming north to Bar Harbor next summer.

Believe Wreckage That of Gloucester Vessel

La Have, N. S., Dec. 6 (AP)—Wreckage, apparently that of a 100 ton schooner, was reported today from Indian Island. In the absence of any clue to the identity of the craft and the fact that no vessels are overdue at southern Nova Scotia ports, it was believed the ship might be a Gloucester, Mass., fisherman.

The ship's back had been broken and two tanks of about 250 gallon capacity washed up on the beach.

Five Rescued Off Schooner by Baltic; Youth Drowns

New York, Dec. 6 (AP)—The rescue of five seamen from a disabled schooner in a heavy sea was reported in a message received today at the offices of the White Star Line from J. Kearney, master of the liner Baltic, due from New York Monday from Liverpool.

One of the schooner's crew, a youth of 20, was drowned, while the Baltic's lifeboat was cast adrift, supposedly because the heavy sea made it impossible to hoist it aboard.

The message, dated 9:30 a. m. E. S. T., said the Baltic sighted the schooner Northern Light, was sinking condition and dangerous to navigation, in 42.56 north latitude and 42.23 west longitude.

The sailor lost was Ray [illegible], of the schooner owned by [illegible] of St. John, N. B., which was [illegible] from St. John to Bonnevista, Bay.

CURB ON DRUG MENACE URGED BY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION HEAD

TIME TO PASS PORTER BILL, HE ASSERTS

Says Three Things Will Be Gained by Regulation of Narcotics

New York, Dec. 6—In the accompanying article, Dr. William Gerry Morgan, president-elect of the American Medical Association, and one of the foremost medical authorities of the country, discusses his reasons for urging the enactment by Congress of the bill of Representative Porter, Republican, of Pennsylvania, to reorganize and strengthen the federal narcotics enforcement system.

By DR. WILLIAM GERRY MORGAN

(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service).

Washington, Dec. 5—The so-called narcotics problem has grown to such alarming proportions that every human agency should be organized to control and suppress the illicit use of narcotics.

On the enlightened physicians of America rests a tremendous responsibility to prevent abuse in the use of these drugs.

THREE MAIN OBJECTS.

It seeks to accomplish three main objects. First, in transforming the machinery for the regulation, manufacture, sale and dispensing of narcotics from the prohibition bureau to an independent agency, a great forward step will be made in protecting the public and profession. It will mean not only better enforcement, but a more enlightened understanding of the narcotic problem.

Second, the bill sets up a system for licensing all persons who manufacture, sell or dispense narcotics. It also gives the Government authority to deny, revoke or suspend the license of any individual who is a narcotic addict, has been convicted of a narcotic offense or otherwise is not a fit person to possess a license.

BILL WELL PREPARED.

It does not impose unfair restrictions upon practitioners of medicine who are conscientious in discharge of their duty toward the public. On the other hand, it protects the profession from those who are willing for a price to disgrace an honorable profession. Individuals of this type should have no place in the practice of medicine.

There is the self-evident advisory committee of medical men to assist in determining the legitimate requirements for the importation and manufacture of narcotic drugs. Limitation of imports is now provided under law. The new bill merely transfers the control of imports from the present board to one composed of medical men, thus assuring the full protection of the rights of practitioners.

As a whole, I think the bill is carefully and comprehensively drawn and is sound throughout. I see no reason why the medical profession may not be whole-heartedly behind the passage of the bill.

On Tax Relief Mission

Marion Davies, famous film star, goes to Washington today with scores of other notables to present tomorrow the Hearst earned income tax relief petition of over a million names to Congress in a picturesque scene on the Capitol Plaza.

FILM STARS AND SINGERS IN TAX PARTY

By FRANCIS J. HEISSORT
(Chairman New York American Income Tax League)

All the professions and arts—and all seeking relief from Congress from excessive taxation on incomes personally earned by individual endeavor.

A varied and interesting caravan will descend on the Capitol of the United States Saturday to participate in the presentation to the Senate and House of the gigantic income tax petition of more than a million Americans.

They ask permanent downward revision of their income taxes and outstrip and on a substantial reduction basis, for the more skilled the individual in a profession and the greater its earnings as a result, the more the federal treasury penalizes him for his income capacity. They will be joined at Washington by a large delegation from the capital and from Baltimore.

MARION DAVIES IN PARTY

The professions and occupational wage-earners of America, all dependent on income from their own efforts, have united with real enthusiasm the opportunity offered by the Hearst newspaper chain to present their desires before the nation's lawmakers.

Brilliant stars in many fields of endeavor have joined the train-load of personal petitioners. Mme. Maria Jeritza, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera, is going.

Miss Marion Davies, known to millions of film fans and now in New York, is to make the pilgrimage to the capital for the benefit of the motion picture profession. She is to be accompanied by the celebrated director, King Vidor, and his charming wife, Eleanor Boardman, famed screen star.

Nathan Burkan, New York lawyer of many noted legal contests, is to be a passenger in the special. Harry Crocker, for four years associated with Charlie Chaplin in direction and film stories, is here from Hollywood and joins the big party today.

Beautiful Mae Murray, picture star of the Tiffany Studios, is to be aboard the special train. Ed Wynn, of the Ziegfeld organization. Known as "The Perfect Fool," will represent the Actors' Equity.

Two great pianists, Leopold Godowsky and Dmitri Tiompkin, are also to go. Justice William Herman Black of the Supreme Court of the State of New York will be another traveler on the memorable journey.

Miss Rheta Childe Dorr, famous author, will join the itinerary division aboard the special. Miss Anne Fitzju, opera and concert singer, joins the group of musical celebrities.

Others who will go are Major George K. Shuler, motion picture magazine publisher, famous in American Legion and military circles; James W. Brown, public administrator of the Bronx, and a leader in Democratic politics; Joseph P. Ryan, president of the Central Trade and Labor Council of New York, and vice president of the Federation Bank & Trust Co.; Jack M. Wolff, lawyer and former assistant U. S. Attorney at New York.

Fame Calls on a New McCormack

'SINGING COP' IS THRILLED BY PAL'S TOKEN

Gets Old Button Off First Uniform on the Eve of Opera Debut

Michael H. McCormack, Boston's own "singing cop," who makes his debut here as the featured tenor in "The Barber of Seville" with the Boston Grand Opera Company this evening, today received a souvenir from an old police pal which affected him greatly.

A shiny brass button from the first uniform worn by Traffic Officer Edward J. McDonald of Dorchester, sent by the officer to remind the singer of the appointment of both to the Boston police department on December 6, 1919, together with the good wishes of the sender.

"We swore eternal friendship that day and both took a button from our new coats and kept it for a memento of the occasion," McCormack said as he proudly displayed the button he had preserved through the years since he left the police force in 1921. He used to pound the pavements at West Roxbury Crossing, Station 19, but all the while he was cultivating his naturally clear, silvery voice. The people called him the "singing cop" and he made scores of friends both in the police and civilian circles.

"I owe a lot to dear old Boston, by heaven! Now I shall venture to protect her by music," McCormack said. "I will sing my best tonight for the success of the Boston Grand Opera Co. which I hope to see permanently established here."

Larry Duffy, Former Noted Athlete, Dead

He passed away at his home, 40 Orkney rd., Brookline, today, after a long illness.

Wherever athletic contests were held in and about Boston, there Larry Duffy's smiling face was always seen, particularly when the contestants included representatives from his beloved alma mater, Dartmouth.

An athlete of note in his school days, shining at football and baseball in English high and Dartmouth, Larry never lost his interest in sports and was as well known as any sports follower in the city.

Lawrence P. Duffy was born in the South End in March of 1866 and developed athletic ability early. He first made a name for himself at English high school, where he captained the football team two years.

He repeated at Dartmouth, where he was a football and baseball star, and carried the love of football with him into business life to such an extent that he sometimes travelled hundreds of miles to witness an important game.

For some years he coached football teams at Hudson high school and also served as an official at scholastic contests.

On leaving college Larry entered the shoe business, in which he continued up to the time of his death, and invented a kicking shoe for football players. On returning from a trip to the Middle West, where he had witnessed a conference game, Larry brought to Boston the first news of the now famous huddle.

A few years ago he was married to Miss Josephine Rogers, sister-in-law of Judge Boudreau of Marlboro, who survives him, together with Francis G. Duffy, a brother, who is a prominent attorney, with offices in Boston; a sister, Mrs. John F. Sullivan of Jamaica Plain.

The apparatus, seen at the left, is located in an exhaust duct above the tunnel's traffic lane near the New York exit. Light is admitted through narrow slits. It is these light beams which actuate the detector, and their intensity, diminished ever to an imperceptible degree by dust, exhaust gases or fog, affects the "eye," permitting more or less current to pass through and sending the changes to a graph on a recording device a half a mile away.

KING WILL TAKE PRINCES TO VISIT POPE

Rome, Dec. 6 (AP)—King Victor Emmanuel will go tomorrow to the Vatican with his only son, Crown Prince Humbert, and other princes of the House of Savoy, to present them to the Pope.

The ceremony will not be so striking as that which marked the visit of the King and Queen and Foreign Minister Grandi to the Pope yesterday, but it will be carried out in the same form. It will be significant in bringing about friendly relations between the entire House of Savoy and the Papacy.

The King and the Princes will drive to the Vatican from the Quirinal Palace. At the Vatican no further preparations have been made. The ceremonial that was prepared for the visit of the sovereigns and the foreign minister will be followed practically to the letter.

The Pope will receive them in the Throne Room, which they will reach by passing through the Hall of the Tapestries. The Pope and the King will greet each other without any ceremony, for they met—for the first time—Thursday. Then the king will present, first, the crown prince, Humbert, and then the others.

It is likely the Pope will congratulate the prince on his engagement to Princess Marie Jose of Belgium and give him his blessing.

The audience of the prince and the king with the Pope, unlike that of the king and queen, will not be behind closed doors. It is not considered to be more than a presentation by the king of his princely relatives.

After the presentation, the king and the princes will go to pay similar respects to Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary. Then they will descend to St. Peter's, where they will worship at the Tomb of the Apostles.

SENATE FACES FIGHT ON TEN 'DRY' BILLS

Washington, Dec. 6 (AP)—A renewal of the 10-year-old controversy over prohibition is in prospect in the Senate.

Ten measures have been introduced and others to carry out President Hoover's desire to tighten up enforcement and make Washington the "model city in the Nation," are expected.

Widest interest is in the proposal of Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, that the purchaser of liquor be made equally liable to punishment with the seller. Sheppard said today he planned to urge early consideration of this bill by the judiciary committee.

A bill to be introduced by Senator Howell, Republican, Nebraska, today would provide the equivalent of a State enforcement agency for the city of Washington.

Another measure is expected to result from suggestions by the Department of Justice to the Senate committee on the District of Columbia. Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, chairman of the committee, said.

Recommendations for reorganizing the government's prohibition enforcement machinery are expected soon from President Hoover, who has appointed John McNab, San Francisco lawyer, to aid in drawing up a plan for submission to this session of Congress.

Measures already before the Senate include a proposal by Senator Blease, Democrat, South Carolina, to make the prohibition law applicable to the diplomatic corps and another by Senator Hawes, Democrat, Missouri, to permit "non-intoxicating liquors" for beverage purposes.

Alaska Fliers Tell Tale of Hardship

Cranberry Portage, Man., Dec. 6 miles of open sea water between them and the Hudson's Bay Company post at Cambridge Bay, and they were forced to wait eight weeks for the water to freeze before they could cross.

Fish and game were scarce; the caribou had gone south, and when the party finally succeeded in crossing the ice all their food but a few frozen fish had been consumed.

Maj. Robert F. Baker, one of the rescued party, said that a jutting piece of main land that reaches out farthest towards Cambridge Bay had been named by them "Perchuk Point," the Eskimo name for "All Gone." He said the name aptly described their condition when they finally crossed the ice to the post, as all their supplies were gone.

TEXTILE MILL PARLEY URGED TO HOOVER

New York, Dec. 6—Henry Kendal of the Kendel Company of Boston, which owns extensive mill interests in Camden and other towns in South Carolina, proposed last night that President Hoover be requested to summon a conference of both Northern and Southern cotton mill operators to seek a basis for stabilization of the industry.

Mr. Kendall's proposal was made after a resolution was passed today by the Taylor Society, an international organization devoted to the study of business administration and management, now holding its annual convention here. Mr. Kendall was re-elected president of the organization.

The resolution, addressed to President Hoover's conference now meeting in Washington, requested that body to consider the importance of preventing wide fluctuations in the general level of commodity prices as a means of keeping business on a level keel and as a safeguard against unemployment.

Mr. Kendall said that the reason why no progress was made toward reducing working hours in the South was because those who favored such changes felt that their competitors would not follow their lead.

He said conditions in Southern mills were "both economically and socially unsound, yet little progress can be made to remedy them successfully until there is a general agreement among operators in the industry."

He said he believed that all woolen and cotton factories should operate not more than 50 hours per week and that employes should continue to receive the same wages they get for their present hours. He said he opposed employment of women in the mills at night.

2 WOMEN SAIL TO PAINT IN PALESTINE

To fulfill the wish of her dead father, Edward Everett Hale, famous for his "Man Without a Country," Miss Ellen D. Hale, his daughter, sailed for Palestine today among the passengers on the Fabre Line steamer Patria.

Miss Hale was accompanied by her life-long companion, Miss G. D. Clemens, a fellow artist of Folly Cove, Rockport.

"My father often expressed the desire to visit Palestine," Miss Hale said as the ship sailed.

"It has always been my ambition to fill the wish of my father. He longed for a sight of Palestine, but his death prevented it.

All our life Miss Hale has taken up art for a pastime, becoming associated with Miss Clemens some years ago at her Rockport summer home. The two intend to paint scenes in the historic country, but had not determined on a particular itinerary on account of the turbulent state of some of the countries they intended to visit.

Among the passengers sailing from this port were Mr. and Mrs. P. W. England; Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Jacque; Miss Lesley Jackson, Miss Martha K. Dickinson, Miss Helen Havermeyer, Miss Marjorie Ames and Miss Lillian Whiting of Boston.

Most of the passengers that sailed were bound for vacation trips in the southern part of Europe, the Patria having the ports of Ponta Delagada, Lisbon, Naples and other Mediterranean ports in in her itinerary.

Cigarette Prices Cut to 12c. a Pack

Boston today was receiving the benefit of the latest "cigarette war" being waged among some of the larger tobacco retailers. Several of the companies have made price cuts of popular brands, down to 12 cents a package, three for 35 cents. A chain drug store system was the first, but others are expected to follow shortly.

A chain cigar company at its Boston office, today was still quoting at the old price of 13 cents, and "two for a quarter."

His Fruit Jar Bank In Hen House Is Looted of $150

Alphonse Santino, of 145 View st., Malden, thought a glass jar buried under the floor of his hen house would be a good hiding place for his savings.

Somebody else thought the same last night and dug it up, took $150 it contained and four hens out of the henhouse. Then with keys which Santino hid under the steps, the thief entered the house and ransacked it while the owner slept.

London, Dec. 6 (AP)—The Prince of Wales has made peace for a boy suspended from Leyton high school by the headmaster for having asked His Highness for his autograph. The boy will go back to school.

The Prince wrote a letter to Lawrence Gill, the boy's father and Gill said it contained some good advice upon which he acted. The letter was marked private and Gill declined to allow its publication.

"Now what did the Prince say?" was being asked widely in England today.

VETS CHIP IN GOODFELLOW GIFT FUND

When he was in the Army his pals used to call him "Swany" when they weren't characterizing him as "regular."

"Swany" is still regular. Today he brought to the Goodfellow Editor a contribution of $7.50.

The money was pooled by Swany's Goodfellows, who work with him at the Customs House, and they made up that sum in order to help out some poor family with a Christmas dinner.

The Goodfellow Editor, thanks to Swany and his Goodfellows, thus is inspired to suggest to all other groups of workers in Greater Boston that this idea could be carried out by them in the same manner.

It would cost little to each individual, but in returns the individual would gain much through the knowledge that he had helped instill a bit of happiness into some home where otherwise only disappointment would be present a Christmas time.

It is up to the Goodfellows to block off this disappointment which, without their aid, is certain.

Bags and bags of appealing letters are coming to Goodfellow Editor daily — some from distressed and desperate mothers hoping against hope that their children may be made happy on Christmas day; some from children themselves asking merely for toys or warm mittens or shoes or clothing for their younger sisters and brothers, and some from fathers who are out of work and cannot find employment.

In order to be a Goodfellow, all a person need do is communicate with the Goodfellow Editor of the Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq.

Tell him you wish to take care of one, two or three of the number of worthy families for Christmas and he will turn over to you letters written by members of those families.

If you cannot afford the time to deal with the family or families direct, you may send your check or your money to the Goodfellow Editor and he will be glad to take care of as many families as it will cover.

Following are a few specimen cases in need of aid. They are picked at random from the pile.

CASE 1—Widow with four children. All badly in need of warm clothing.

CASE 2—Thirteen children in family. Father is ill and has been unable to work for the past two years. He would be very grateful for anything.

CASE 3—Family of four children. Father has been out of work for quite some time.

CASE 4—Seven children in family. Father earns but $15 per week. Children need clothing.

CASE 5—Eight children. Mother ill. Father works but three days a week. Five children going to school need underwear and coats, as they are still wearing the clothes left over from the summer.

CASE 6—Little girl, four, would like some toys for her baby brother and herself. Her father has been dead almost four years.

CASE 7—Girl, 13, asks for gloves for her six younger brothers and sisters. Mother just released from hospital. Father's salary very small, with a possibility of his being laid off before Christmas.

250 WESTFIELD PATIENTS FILE PROTESTS

More than 250 patients at the Westfield State Sanatorium, most of them children today publicly protested against what they declared an "unfair ruling" by the State Health Commission denying them the privilege this year of visiting their homes at Christmas.

Stating that in previous years they have been allowed to go home for a brief but happy vacation at Yuletide, they appeal for a modification of the ruling.

Dr. George H. Bigelow, state health commissioner, admitted issuing the drastic order in the best interests of the patients. He indicated that the ruling would not be withdrawn.

The statement issued in behalf of the patients reads as follows:

"We want to protest against what we consider an unfair ruling of the State Health Commission which compels us to remain away from our folks and loved ones during the Christmas holiday.

"As patients of the Westfield Sanatorium, we have been allowed in past years to go home for this brief but happy vacation, but the health commissioner thinks that this particular year we will bring back contagious diseases.

"We ask, is this fair treatment and proper spirit toward patients who have looked forward to this brief respite in a monotonous existence of lying in bed, obeying all rules and regulations so that they can have this opportunity to 'mix' again?"

When informed of the protest, Commissioner Bigelow said:

"We have given a great deal of thought to this matter and dealt with it in a spirit of sympathy and friendliness.

"Last year we were faced with a serious situation at the North Reading Sanatorium, where patients brought back to the institution scarlet fever and whooping cough and made it necessary for us to close the sanatorium for 14 weeks.

"The patients at Westfield are tubercular. It is costing the State a great deal of money to care for them. Furthermore, there is a long waiting list of those desirous of similar treatment. We realize that Christmas is a time of sentiment and family reunion, but for the sake of the patients themselves we were obliged to issue this ruling. It is fair; it is just, and it is in the best interest of all."

LOYD GEORGE EAGUE SPEECH IS PRAISED

Washington, Dec. 6—Lloyd eorge's castigation of the League Nations during a speech in the ouse of Commons has found a arm response among anti-league enators.

Comment follows:

ENATOR JOHNSON (R), of California—"Lloyd George by experience has learned what we sensed years ago. No man is better qualified than he to tell of what the league has done in the past and none can better characterize its present uselessness for the purpose for which it was formed.

"Those who made the good fight against American participation in the league needed neither corroboration of their views nor justification of their actions, but his words, those of one of the progenitors of the league, may perhaps soothe the perturbed spirits of the misguided among us who, unable to accomplish the purpose, would still make us a part of Europe's controversies."

ENATOR MOSES (R.) of New Hampshire—"Lloyd George, being one of the parents of the League, has been much more handy in realizing the defects in his offspring than some of us who are not members of the family."

ENATOR WHEELER (D) of Montana—"I have always felt that we are better off out of the League than in it. Membership in the League would involve us in a number of European entanglements which we ought to avoid."

ENATOR FRAZIER (R) of North Dakota—"Lloyd George speaks from the fullness of rich experience and his words should be heeded by America. The evidence, piling up day by day, demonstrates beyond all doubt that the United States should remain aloof from the League of Nations."

ENATOR BLAINE (R.) of Wisconsin—"Lloyd George is only partially right. He is correct in saying that the League has done nothing for 10 years, but he should have added that the League can never accomplish anything for world peace. It is an organization not only for officious meddling, but for armed intervention."

Twenty Injured in Chicago Bomb Blast

Chicago, Dec. 6 (AP)—The 104th bomb of the year, and one of the most powerful ever planted in Chicago, exploded at 300-310 W. 31st st., blasting a four-story building and injuring 29 persons, one seriously.

Firemen estimated the damage might reach $50,000. Frank, 11-year-old son of Tony Marsello, who had his barbershop in the building, was most seriously hurt. His father's shop received the full force of the high-powered bomb. Police were unable to determine today at whom the bomb was directed or for what reason.

Gives Away $10,000 But It All Came Back

Joliet, Ill., Dec. 6 (AP)—George Weyer started out Tuesday to be a philanthropist and wound up today with his money all back in the bank.

He went to the bank Tuesday and asked how much his balance was. They told him it was $17,000 plus.

"Too much money to be lying around," decided Weyer, so he drew out $10,000.

He moved on down the street. He came to the Guardian Angel Home and entered.

"Here's $2000 for your excellent institution," said Weyer. "Tut, tut! Don't try to dissuade me. I've got money, a good job and no one to support."

The next stop was at the Providence high school, where he gave the sisters in charge $7200. Later he dropped into the Salvation Army and gave away the rest of the money.

"Money irks me terribly," he explained.

Yesterday, however, was another day. He went to the police station and told everything.

"We've been waiting for you," the police said. "The people you gave the money to have been calling up. It looked fishy to them."

"Oh, that part's all right," said Weyer. "It isn't the money itself, but I got to thinking that if the money had stayed in the bank it would have earned interest. If the people really want me to have it back, who am I to hurt their feelings?"

Today the money's in the bank Weyer's bank.

APPEALS FINE FOR BEATING BOY AT CAMP

Winchendon, Dec. 6—Andral L. Russell, 26-year-old assistant camp director of Camp Chan Ru Doma, boys' camp, which is located in a lonely section of Winchendon about two miles from the center of the town, was found guilty this noon by Associate Justice H. H. Walker of beating Parker J. Lyons, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lyons of Harriet st., Providence, R. I., on the night of November 19. The boy has been a student at the camp since last April when he was placed there by his parents.

Judge Walker ordered Russell to pay a fine of $10. Russell appealed and was allowed his freedom on his personal surety for his appearance at the January term of Superior Court at Worcester.

Young Lyons told Judge Walker that Russell threw him to the floor of the garage of the camp on November 19 and beat him with a stick three-fourths of an inch wide, two feet long and three inches thick, and that the beating lasted four minutes.

Frank E. Russell, director of the camp and father of young Russell, was present and ordered the beating, the boy said.

Dr. Thomas R. Donovan of Fitchburg testified that he examined the boy Nov. 20 and 21 and found black and blue marks on both shoulder blades, on the upper and lower back, on the thighs and on the legs. He said that he found a rectangular mark four inches long and three-fourths of an inch wide where the skin had been broken. The left elbow was swollen. The marks were caused by blows, he said.

Richard K. Godwin, district representative of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, testified that he went to the camp with Chief Robert Callahan of the Winchendon police and talked with the defendant, that the defendant admitted that he had punished the boy in the garage and had used a stick to do so, on orders of his father. Godwin asked him what his reason was for beating the boy, and the defendant replied it was because the boy had threatened to put poison in his father's cider.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 6—Construction of a $500,000 airport exclusive of the $65,000 already paid for the 325 acres of land near Havelock, a suburb of Lincoln, will begin immediately by the Sidles Airways Corporation, it has been announced here.

CHEF AT ST. ELIZABETH HOSPITAL HELPED BY BON-TONE

Tells How He Was Relieved of Gas Pains, Belching and Dizzy Spells.

Mr. Patrick J. Cassidy, of 20 Dustin street, Brighton, Mass., who is chef at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, states:

Mr. Patrick J. Cassidy

"For the last two years I was troubled with my stomach. After eating, my food did not seem to digest properly—it just seemed to lie to a lump in the pit of my stomach, and I would have gas pains. I tried to diet—that is, to eat only certain kinds of food, thinking that that would benefit me; but no matter what I ate, I still had those pains, and belched gas a lot. I was also bothered with dizzy spells; and my bowels were in very bad condition—I was always taking laxatives. It was very seldom that I got a good night's rest.

"When I saw in the papers the amount of Bon-Tone testimonials from Boston people, I decided to go down to Epstein's Drug Store and have a talk with the Bon-Tone representative. I did so; and when he told me the names of different people, some of whom I know personally, and of their different symptoms—a lot of them were similar to mine—and how they had been corrected; I decided to try a couple of bottles of Bon-Tone. On those first two bottles I could feel results; and now, after using six bottles, I feel great. I eat, sleep well, have no gas troubles; and my bowels are in fine condition. I am more than pleased to recommend Bon-Tone."

Call or write to Mr. Ryan, the Bon-Tone man, who is to meeting the public daily at Epstein Drug Store, Scollay Square, Boston. Have him tell you why this medicine has become the sensation of the drug trade and a household word all through New England. Bon-Tone is also for sale in Cambridge at Cole Drug Store, 636 Mass. Ave., Central Square, and in South Boston at John S. Austin's Drug Store, 436 Broadway, Perkins Square.

Send Lowman Photos of Agents' Victims

Washington, Dec. 6 (INS)—Every morning in the mail Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman, in charge of prohibition, receives a copy of a picture of Henry Virkula, killed at International Falls, Minn., by a customs agent.

The picture depicts Virkula in his coffin. The gruesome reminder of this incident which attracted national attention is daily mailed from Brooklyn, N. Y.

At periodical intervals Lowman also receives a picture of the mother of Arthur Gordon, killed by a customs agent near Plattsburg, N. Y., kneeling at the grave of her son.

Both men were suspected of having violated the customs laws and failed to stop when ordered to do so by customs agents.

9 INJURED IN 2D MUNHALL BLAST

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 6 (AP)—Nine persons were injured today in an explosion near the scene of the blast that killed five persons, injured more than a score of others, and wrecked the postoffice yesterday at Munhall, a suburb. None of those hurt today was in a critical condition.

The second explosion was in the Star Drug Store and an adjoining restaurant.

The second explosion, like that of yesterday, was blamed unofficially, on gas leakage. Part of one wall of a drugstore, which adjoined the postoffice building, was blown out.

NEW POP-OVERS BIG SURPRISE TO CLASS

Pop-Overs that popped high, wide and handsome—were the opening number on the program in the Martha Lee School of Practical Cookery this week.

Given 1 cup of flour, 1 cup of milk, ½ tsp. of salt, and 2 eggs, beaten! Martha produces from her pop-ers insulated cast oven the golden crusted crispest and most delightful delicious pop overs that ever popped.

She says its "just as easy" and will give the directions and recipe if you'll mention your membership number in the Martha Lee Women's Club.

Did some lesson also include a Spider Corn Bread, baked in a heavy aluminum frying pan in the oven. And here too, Martha's magic was set to work for a cup of milk poured over the corn cake just before baking it in the oven reappeared in a line of creamy custard right in the middle of the corn bread!

How come? That too will be explained on Lesson Sheet Number Nine, which she offers without charge to her club members.

Clover Leaf Rolls and Pecan Buns demonstrated that home made bread and roll baking is by no means a lost art.

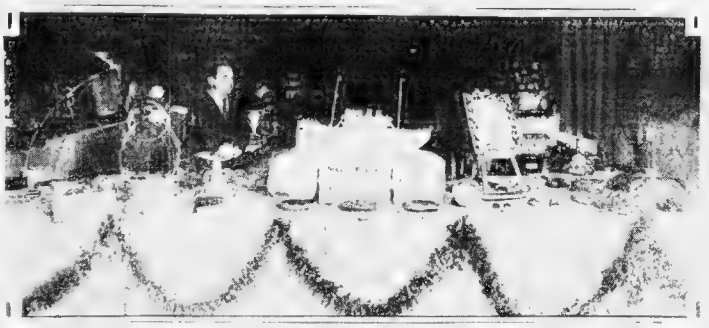
Cocoa Cream Roll proved that it is really easy to make and roll a jelly roll if you know how. So, if you ever make an unsuccessful attempt to master this little cake's trick and aplomb to serve a perfect roll in real store style, better write for the recipe Edna Date Dainties proved as delicious as they were easy to make and economical too, since they called for no butter and the Cocoa and Men, frosted to represent sailor boys, chocolate policemen and jolly police, are seasonable, with Christmas in the offing.

If you live too far away to take advantage of Martha Lee's popular lessons in Practical Cookery, why not secure a membership card in the Martha Lee Women's Club, which will also entitle you to receive copies of these lesson sheets whenever you care to write for them?

Martha Lee's Women's Club is New England's most interesting and progressive organization for women and best of all it is a club of no dues but many privileges. For instance, one of the privileges is the cooking demonstration given today to Martha Lee club members, without charge, by K. Camille Den Dooven, former chef to royalty, as well as in the finest hotels of this country and on the continent, and the author of several authoritative books on professional and home cookery.

A line to Martha Lee, directed in care of this paper, 333 Winthrop st., will bring you your membership card and registered number by return mail.

Prize-Winning Dainties Made by a Man



K. Camille Den Dooven, royal chef and author, who talks about good things in the Martha Lee kitchen, is the creator of all these nice things to eat. He tells how to make them, too.

CLASS TO LEARN OF PORK AND STEAK

The concluding lessons in the present course of cookery in the Martha Lee School will center around plumbed stock, with all the trimmings, a crown roast of pork, with its accompaniments; and the long-promised demonstration of how to make chop suey with a real oriental flavor.

New England dressed fresh pork will be featured on the Martha Lee menu, being hot for the crown roast of pork and the meat foundation of the chop suey.

In purchasing pork, more than perhaps in any other meat, Martha Lee says that it pays to be particular, and she knows that in specifying New England dressed fresh pork she is getting the finest pork that money can buy. This lineage is branded for your protection against substitutes, and is government inspected and passed.

All cuts of New England dressed fresh pork are trimmed closely to avoid waste and while this may increase the cost of the cuts a penny or two, it gives you products which are most satisfactory and really economical. And you really can "taste the difference immediately when a roast of this branded fresh pork is served. Then, too, in purchasing New England dressed fresh pork, we are patronizing home industry.

Wouldn't you like to have us see that you receive a free copy of an excellent recipe booklet, Ways for Using New England Dressed Fresh Pork and 21 Ways to Serve It? Just a card directed to Martha Lee will bring you the book promptly.

THE TRUTH ABOUT CANDY

Candy is perishable, and cannot be shipped all over the country from one factory. The finer the candy the more perishable it is. Page & Shaw candies are unique in being cooked at low temperature and made of peculiarly wholesome materials, so invalids and children can eat them freely. Page & Shaw is the only concern operating on a zone system with its own shops and work rooms on both sides of the Atlantic and clear across this continent.

TRANSFER SYSTEM

Page & Shaw has an unique transfer system, whereby your order to deliver candy anywhere on this continent or abroad, is forwarded to the local Page & Shaw branch or agency, which delivers the candy fresh and in perfect condition. The order has to do the travelling, rather than the candy.

THE ART OF GIVING

A gift should bring satisfaction twice, to him that gives and him that receives. Its merit must be known to both. Page & Shaw Candies have been famous for nearly fifty years because they possess that charm of flavor which only master craftsmen, using the world's finest materials, can produce. Everywhere, here and abroad, a box of Page & Shaw's carries with it the prestige of quality. It stands pre-eminent the world over. It fits the Art of Giving.

Employmen Bureau in Quincy Crowded

[illegible] of men and [illegible] of them heads of families who had been idle for [illegible] applied for work at the Quincy municipal employment office when it was opened in the City Hall.

The opening of the bureau had been heralded to such an extent by the local daily papers and by radio broadcasting stations received in the first day wherever wide [illegible] it was stated at the city [illegible] believed.

FROM THE WATCH TOWER

While the vegetable counters are dependent on the southern states for many of their present supplies, such as fresh greens and buncned root vegetables, the local farmers are sending in squash, celery, cabbage, hothouse lettuce, tomatoes radishes and cucumbers.

Mushrooms are plentiful and consequently cheap at 49c to 59c a pound. (Remember, mushroom recipes are available to any one who will drop me a line.) Potato prices have eased down a bit, which will help in some. Cauliflower, coming from California, is a bit high, but celery is reasonable and plentiful. The Western celery is the creaper, but the quality and flavor of the native variety makes up any difference in price.

A few honey dew melons remain which reminds me to inquire how you like the honey dew cocktail, suggested for your Thanksgiving dinner? And some navel oranges have appeared. Grapefruit are reasonable at 10c and tangerines have made an unusually early appearance. They are selling at 29c to 39c a dozen. Banana prices are as staple as the fruit itself—averaging 25c a dozen the year round.

In meats, fresh pork is the outstanding economical meat buy. And we want to call your attention to the delicious flavor and reasonable prices of New England dressed fresh pork. We know of an excellent recipe book showing new and interesting ways to serve this delicious meat and would be glad to see that you have a copy, if you'll let us know that you would like one.

The New England dressed fresh pork rib roasts are selling at 23c to 25c a pound, with the finest chops at 39c to 35c. Crown Roast of New England fresh dressed pork will be included in our cooking school lessons next week and also Chop Suey—perhaps you'd like these recipes too?

Fish prices in general are a bit higher, which is natural this weather, and 90c continues to be the most common retail price for Massachusetts special eggs, sold within a few miles of Boston. The pullet size of the same official state grade are retailing from 70c to 75c a dozen.

Fine Autoist $25 for Fleeing Police

After his attorney had stated the defendant was the victim of a police frameup and had thought Patrolman J. Stanley of Wakefield was a holdup man rather than an officer of the law, Judge Elbridge G. Davis found John E. Ellison of 17 Gledhill ave., Everett, guilty on charges of refusing to stop for a policeman and driving so as to endanger lives, in the Malden District Court.

Patrolman Stanley of Wakefield told the court he twice chased the defendnat in an automobile quite a distance and was unable to apprehend him Ellison, police say, was found at his home in Everett and after questioning him the police had him summonsed into court Ellison was fined $20.

Dry Law Discussion by Lawyers Sunday

Northampton, Dec. 6—Two former district attorneys of western Massachusetts will debate "Prohibition and Its Enforcement" before the Hampshire County Progressive Club forum here Sunday night, it was announced today.

Charles H. Wright of Pittsfield will uphold prohibition and Joseph B. Ely of Westfield will take the negative. Prof. L. R. Frost of Massachusetts Agricultural College will preside. The debate will be held in Carnegie Hall and a capacity audience is expected.

Polish Diet Quiet

Warsaw Dec 6—With Marshal Joseph Pilsudski absent from the government seat, and no sign of the military cohorts with which he overawed national legislature on Oct. 31, the Polish Diet held a 1½ hour session without a sign of disorder

QUESTION BOX IS BUSY

D. S. W., one of our very good members in Woburn, writes me that a real tragedy befell her Thanksgiving dessert because at the last minute the cream failed to whip. She asks if anything could have been done to have saved the situation. Yes, indeed, several little things.

In the first place, when you see that your cream is not whipping as it should, add a pinch of salt. If this fails, whip up the white of an egg until it is stiff, but not actually dry, pour the cream over this and set it in the ice chest until it is well chilled. It will then whip readily.

Do you ever try whipping cream in a small pitcher? It whips more quickly than in an open bowl and with less spattering. The whipped cream will remain stiff if 1 tsp. of dissolved gelatine is beaten into ½ pint of whipping cream.

Mrs. W. T. S. of South Boston is having trouble with her raised biscuits. She says that her family liked soft crusts on rolls and hers are quite hard.

If you will put a saucepan full of boiling water in the oven while your biscuits are baking, the steam will keep the tops smooth and tender. Another little trick is to cover bread with a paper bag to keep it from burning when baking.

Mrs. B. W. M. of Quincy, writes that she has had trouble in making a starch free from lumps. If you will mix your cold starch in cold water in a cup and pour it into a saucepan of boiling water, your starch would be clear and free from lumps and streaks. Add a good pinch of salt for each quart, to prevent sticking, and if you are going to let it stand a while cover it with a cloth and it will not skin over on top.

Most people I find, mix their starch with cold water in a saucepan and then pour on boiling water, which often accounts for the lumps. Heating with an egg beater also helps.

Mrs. T. W. G. of Weymouth, asks for a good recipe for Ragout of Beef, which I am glad to give her.

RAGOUT OF BEEF

A ragout may be made of one of the cheaper cuts or, if time is limited, a slice from the rump. Cut 1 lb. of the beef into serving pieces, sprinkle with salt and pepper and flour. Dry out some of the beef fat or suet and brown the meat in it. Place the beef in a casserole. To the fat left in the pan, add 2 tsps. of chopped onion and brown slightly. Stir in 2 tbsps. of flour, then 1 pt. of boiling water, season quite highly, and pour over the meat. Cover tightly and bake slowly for about 2 hours. At the end of the first hour add ½ cup of cooked macaroni, and ½ cup tomato sauce made by stewing 1½ cups of canned tomatoes with a tb.sp. of chopped onion or celery, a few bits of leftover carrot, 3 or 4 cloves, salt and pepper. Strain and thicken.

SPICE CAKES

Last of all, for Mrs. A. E. B., a recipe for spice cakes which are excellent for dessert, served hot with whipped cream or cold as cup cakes.

To 1 cup of bread flour which has been sifted with 1 tsp of soda, add 2 tbsps. more of bread flour. Also add ¼ tsp. each of ginger, clove, cinnamon, nutmeg and ½ tsp salt. Have buttered and floured muffin pans ready. Then mix well 1-3 cup butter, and ½ cup sugar. Add 1 well beaten egg, 1-3 cup molasses, the flour, and last of all slowly, ½ cup of boiling water. Beat well, fill the pans half full, bake about 20 minutes in a moderate oven. This will make about 15 cup cakes.

Any more questions? Just address them to Martha Lee, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, and watch for your reply in this paper next week or by mail.

DEMOCRATS GET GOOD PLACES

Washington, Dec. 6—The three Democratic Congressmen from Massachusetts fared well in the assignment of places on the House committees which were agreed to at the Democratic caucus.

Representative John W McCormack of Boston, now serving his first full term, was assigned to civil service, elections No. 3 and territories, three places in all.

Representative John J. Douglas of Boston retains his place on education and on war claims and was assigned to a place on election No. 2.

Representative Connery of Lynn remains on labor; on World War veterans and on revision of laws. Connery is now ranking Democrat on the committee on labor and in the event of a Democratic Congress will be chairman of the committee.

Given Lisbon Post

Washington, Dec 6—The nomination of John Glover South of Frankfort, Ky., who now is minister to Panama, to be minister to Portugal, was sent to the Senate by President Hoover.

TOMATOIS FULL OF POWER

"Vitamins in food are like the spark plugs in your automobile," said an authority recently. And so they are. They help to get the results you want from the food you eat, just as the spark plugs enable you to make the gasoline effectively.

Most of us are concerned with getting the proper mileage from a gallon of food. We want the spark plugs of our motor clean and we demand good gasoline.

Tomato juice carries more vitamins than anything except cod liver oil. It has a particular store of vitamin B, and this vitamin E furnishes the vital spark which keeps up important functions. The reason for this is because vitamin E assists the red blood cells in absorbing iron from other foods.

Canned tomato juice is recommended by physicians to be equally as efficacious as raw tomatoes in supplying this valuable vitamin E. Vitamins, A, B and C are also contained in canned tomatoes.

Celebration Parade to St. Nicholas' Tomb

Bari, Italy, Dec 6 (AP)—Instead of waiting until Christmas to commemorating St. Nicholas, the Adriatic seacoast city today celebrated in honor of that famous patron of children, sailors, merchants, bakers and travelers.

There was a picturesque procession to the church in which his remains are believed to be entombed.

Crash Accuser Bails Defendant in $1000

Portland, Me., Dec. 6—When $1000 bail was asked by the court of Richard Cowden, who asked a continuance of the hearing on a charge of reckless driving, Charles J. M. Wee of Westbrook, whose car had been run into by the defendant's machine, and who was a witness for the state, stepped forward and put up the money.

MILK HAS ITS OWN FIELD

That milk is the most satisfactory single article of food consumed by man is maintained by the National Bureau of Economic Research in a recent survey. The use of milk has more than doubled since 1919.

"Though not a complete food, writes Dr. Leo Wolman, "milk is an ideal food for compensating for deficiencies in other foodstuffs and is one food for which there is no effective substitute. Along with eighty-seven per cent of water, it contains mainly proteins and fats of high quality, and milk sugar.

"It is unique in its calcium, in good balance with phosphorus, but is poor in iron. Milk fats are the most important sources of vitamin A, and milk also contains vitamins B and C."

It was President Hoover who gave the dairy industry its slogan, "The white race cannot survive without dairy products."

Morrow Gives $1000 to Mexico Hospital

Mexico City, Dec. 6 (AP)—The Mexico City Red Cross Hospital received today that on the eve of his departure for the United States Ambassador Morrow donated $1000 to the institution. The Ambassador and Mrs. Morrow, and their daughter Elisabeth, left here last night for the United States, expecting to reach Laredo Saturday morning and New York Monday.

COLLEGE SPORT DESCRIBED AS 'DEBAUCH'

New York, Dec 6 (AP)—Present [illegible] intercollegiate and interscholastic sports competition is described as an "athletic debauch" by Frederick Rand Rogers, director of health education of New York.

In his report of a survey published today through teachers college, Columbia University, Mr Rogers assails the modern coaching system, championships and the commercialization of college and high school athletics and charges that intensive competition frequently results in permanent injury or impairment of the health of contestants.

ATHLETIC REFORM NEEDED.

He suggests a series of drastic reforms to return sports to the players for the sake of the sport itself. These include curtailment of the power of coaches, abolition of ineligibility rules and changes in the rules of games to lessen the strain and reduce the hazard of injury.

"Physical training and athletic leadership for young championship aspirants, the spectators and the general public are two of the various methods employed to glorify the hero," but the writer says, who suffer pay a great price for their caps and bells. Increased blood pressure, strained hearts, exhausted tissue, torn ligaments permanently weakened—these are typical of the more obvious penalties extorted from adolescent athletes."

For a return to the ideal of physics that dictates play for play's sake, Mr. Rogers said educators may look to Harvard, Yale and other Eastern colleges.

RAISES NEW ENGLAND

"Prizefighting has almost died out in New England, but it is still rampant in the West, fireworks of bleacher stunts are passe at Harvard, but the pacific coast college specials still provide various exhibitions of their big men. If Harvard alumni are still worried over the fate of their sons on the teams the undergraduates of Harvard enjoy a totally different point of view, but the Middle West and the Far West alumni still hold the whip hand.

MacDonald Escapes Defeat on Work Bill

London, Dec. 6 (AP)—To avoid apparently imminent defeat the government was forced to abandon one of the clauses of its unemployment insurance bill, under consideration in the Commons.

The clause dealt with the question of disqualification of unemployed persons whose efforts to obtain work might have been indifferent. The entire left wing of the Labor party and some of its supporters as well as the Liberals and Conservatives, opposed the provision.

New Ways of Cooking Winter Vegetables

By winter vegetables I don't mean just the carrots, turnips, parsnips, onions and spinach that in the olden days formed the bulk of our winter vegetables but all the various canned vegetables that add such variety to our winter menus.

But in using canned vegetables please be sure to open the juice cans several hours before using whenever possible, to remove the "canned" flavor.

Drain the liquid from such vegetables as peas, beans and beets and save it for soup.

The recipes I'm going to give you today are easily intended as meat substitutes for luncheon or supper dishes, and for the main dish occasionally.

BAKED ASPARAGUS

Cut a can of asparagus tips into one-inch pieces. Make a white sauce of two tablespoons of melted butter, 4 tablespoons of flour, 2 cups of milk, ½ teaspoon of pepper and one teaspoon of salt. Add one cupful of soft bread crumbs. Put layer of asparagus in the bottom of a buttered baking dish or casserole, add layer of white sauce and a layer of chopped hard boiled eggs (you will need four eggs in the entire recipe). Repeat until the dish is filled, sprinkle with dried buttered bread crumbs, mix with 1 cupful of grated American cheese and bake in a hot oven for 12 minutes.

SAVORY ONIONS

Fry a pound of tender young onions cut in half inch thick slices in 3 tbsps. of butter for shortening until a light brown. Be careful to avoid burning. Add 1 cupful of thick stewed tomatoes, ½ tsp. of salt, ¼ tsp. of sugar, ¼ tsp. of pepper and 2-3 of a cupful of hot water. Cover and cook for 45 minutes, stirring frequently. It should be about as thick as scalloped tomatoes. Pour into a buttered baking dish, cover with grated cheese and brown quickly in a hot oven.

To make a main supper dish—After the cheese has browned make four hollows in which break four eggs—cover with a little more cheese and put back in the oven until the eggs are set and the cheese is melted a brown.

YOUTH HELD IN MAN SLAYING

Westfield, Dec. 6—Eugene Tetreault of Pascoag, R. I., being held in Strafford Springs, Ct., for having a gun in his possession was today being questioned in connection with the murder of Gerard Salvatore.

State Detective David J. Manning, Jr. Chief of Police Thomas Tuley and Inspector William A. Gilpin went to Stafford Springs to question Tetreault after he had claimed an abandoned automobile containing a .32 calibre revolver and several unexploded shells.

He was questioned in detail relative to his movements last Saturday and Sunday, before and after the time Salvatore's bullet-riddled body was found off the City View rd.

Police Chief Injured

Marion, Dec 6—Chief of Police Paul C. Blankinship of Marion was seriously injured when a large car, owned by Joseph R. Hall, Falmouth automobile dealer, crashed into his car at the crossroads in front of Stimson's garage.

SENATE ACTION ON TAX MAY BE DELAYED

Washington, Dec 6 (AP)—Prompt action by the Senate on the administration's $160,000,000 tax reduction program was menaced today by the tariff bill and a renewal of the raging controversy which it aroused in the special session.

With the disposition of the Vare case during the day made certain by previous agreement, a choice between the tariff and tax projects for subsequent consideration clearly was made necessary. Chairman Smoot of the finance committee set aside an early hour to get his committee together to report out the tax resolution.

Smoot and the rest of the Republican regulars were desirous of putting the tax resolution ahead of the tariff measure.

Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the finance committee, served notice that he would oppose any attempt to sidetrack the tariff bill, and Senator Borah of Idaho, a leader of the Republican insurgents, was as firmly against this procedure without definite understanding that a vote on an early vote on the tax proposal.

Democratic leaders predicted the tax reduction resolution would be passed easily, once it got before the Senate. They were inclined to favor a cut in levies on future as well as this year's incomes.

The tax resolution was sent to the Senate late yesterday by the House, which had approved the measure by a vote of 263 to 17.

Wins Rum-Drinking Bet, Then Falls Dead

Eldorado, Kas. Dec 6 (AP)—Tom Nason, negro, bet his week's wages he could drink a quart of "moonshine" without stopping, walk 10c yards without staggering and return. Fellow employes in a filling station accepted his challenge. Tom drank the liquor and walk. I as he had wagered. He died a short time later.

MAN HELD FOR SHOOTING DICE GAME BANDIT

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 6 —(AP)— James Davis, who said he fired five shots to prevent a masked bandit from making away with several hundred dollars in a hotel room dice game, was held in jail today pending completion of an investigation into the fatal wounding of A. M. Searcy, socially prominent real estate office secretary.

Davis told the coroner that a man, who police said was identified as Searcy, invaded the room, lined the players up at the point of a pistol and seized the money.

Davis said he gave chase because most of the money was his and shot him as he fled.

Federation Fund to Finance Clubs' 'Business'

Massachusetts Leaders Explain Purpose of $2,000,000 Drive

What are the specific purposes for which the $2,000,000 Foundation Fund of the General Federation of Women's Clubs is needed?

Throughout the State clubwomen have been asking this question. They want to know what benefits the individual clubs of the country will derive after the $2.50 per capita tax has been met. They want to know the reason for the costly expansion of the greatest organized body of women.

Actually they want to know what is to be done with the money after it is realized at the end of the three years.

And to this question Mrs Arthur Devens Potter, General Federation director from Massachusetts gives this complete answer.

She says:

"The machinery of the General Federation centralized in Washington, has become a big business without adequate financing. The routine work also centralized in Washington should be carried on efficient, high powered workers if we are to keep pace with the demands of the field and with other similar organizations.

"For want of an adequate budget we might see better financed organizations leading the way. Maintenance of headquarters where the activities must be carried on should be furnished from a Foundation Fund rather than a separate maintenance fund.

"The power of decentralized leadership should be increased by providing such a fund for the expansion of departments now so handicapped by the necessarily small appropriations.

"The General Federation departments are the brain the heart the lungs, the eyes the ears for stimulation in their corresponding groups in the State Federation due to the 12 months of the year.

"Better financing would enable further decentralization of leadership if the department and division chairmen could visit the state and the clubs bring the personal message and understanding to the absolute unit of Federation, the individual club woman.

"The Foundation Fund is needed to better finance our biennial conventions and council meetings from a Foundation Fund and relieve the local biennial boards of a tremendous burden, growing heavier with our increasing membership.

"With the General Federation functioning through eight departments and 125 different activities, compare this program of work with the finances furnished by 10 cents per capita dues and our financing is found most incomplete. It is the marvel of other organizations that we accomplish as much as we do. To quote a former president: 'No other organization of women is so inadequately financed as the General Federation, and no other organization is accomplishing as much.'

"What is it worth to our State and the nation to enlist without salary some of the finest workers and thinkers in this country and to have them hold up sane standards of living in every community?

"If our members continue to grow as our opportunities are ever increasing our financing must not retard this now powerful organization. Only those who are in the work can know how much comes out of the private pocketbooks of officials in State and General Federation. This should not be for these are many women who would be capable leaders who cannot accept these positions because they cannot afford to go on.

"We are told that the world is looking to America for moral leadership and to the women of America to point the way. From whence shall that leadership come? We believe largely from the women's clubs. It will be the intelligence and understanding with which each club and each club member feels the responsibility, individually, that will make or mar the success of the Foundation Fund."

DAUGHTERS OF MASSACHUSETTS

FLIER TO GET LOVING CUP

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

Gratitude for the exhibition of stunt flying given at the Falmouth air meet last summer today brings the aviation committee of that event headed by W. J. "Bill" Denny, to the Boston Airport to present a handsome loving cup to Lieut. Clarence S. "Dutch" Shankle, A. C. U. S. A., regular army instructor to the National Guard air unit.

During the air meet at Falmouth Airport situated on Coonamessett ranch, Lieut. Shankle took his Consolidated O-17 biplane up each day and entertained the crowd by the hour with his bag of tricks. Since the meet, Denny has been trying to find some means of showing his and the committee's appreciation and finally decided the loving cup would be most fitting.

Lieut. Shankle hadn't heard a thing about the whole affair, and didn't expect to receive anything for his work at Falmouth. His love for flying, and the beautiful weather were all "Dutch" needed to play around the sky.

REWARD FOR WORK

The presentation will bring Bob Townsend, who was operations manager at the airport on the Cape during the summer, and who worked in conjunction with Denny and the committee to put the air meet over. Townsend has been counting the days until the cup could be given to Shankle and now that the zero hour has been reached, Bob is glad that the genial lieutenant's work will be rewarded.

Miss Bernice Blake, one of the Curtiss-Wright girl student-pilots at the Manchester, N. H., station, stopped in at the company's office at the Boston Airport to say hello, and meet some of the boys who gave her flying instruction at Manchester in the early part of last summer.

Miss Blake declared that she has 20 hours of solo flying to her credit, and has obtained her private license. She delivered a lecture on aviation at a Parent-Teachers' meeting at a school in the New Hampshire city last night, and stressed the need of more people, both men and women, taking up aviation, both as a livelihood and as a sport.

TO GIVE SHOW IN BOSTON

Before leaving, Miss Blake stated that she would pay an air visit to Boston before long, and give the gang a chance to see how she handles a plane.

Another Aviation Night dance is on the books for tonight. This one will be staged in Payson Hall, Belmont by Cliff Lovewell, a former navy pilot.

Lovewell, who is well known to the boys at the naval air station at Squantum, reported that he expects a large turnout from all the airports surrounding Boston, and that his orchestra is all ready to go. Each member of this music maker's team will wear a helmet and goggles to create the proper atmosphere for the visiting pilots and their girl friends.

Dave Sher, crack racing pilot and general manager of Sound Airways, Inc., operators of the New Bedford-Fairhaven airport, Travel Aired up from his field to have East Coast Aircraft Corp. give the Wright J-6 300 horsepower motor the once-over, and get it into first class shape for this coming Sunday, when another get-together will be staged at the company's field.

NO CIGARETTES

Dave was piloted by his chief pilot, Hank Olden, the only flier we ever met who doesn't smoke cigarettes, and both boys looked at the snow covering the local airport and wondered if they hadn't gone too far north. The appearance of Walter Rogers and Gus Hann, however, convinced them that they were in the right place.

The show that Sunday will not be an air meet by any stretch of the imagination, but will be in the form of an educational campaign to get the residents of New Bedford and surrounding towns and cities familiar with the location of the new field, and incidentally give them a good time.

"Ike" Dawson, president and treasurer of Sound Airways, was unable to accompany the boys up here, but he will visit the Bean Town flying field in the near future and get a line on what is being done.

FENCE TO KEEP CROWS BACK

A 600-foot wire fence is being erected one one side of the airport at New Bedford to keep the people from walking across the field while airplanes are taking off and landing. This fence will be extended as soon as possible, and will eventually surround the whole field.

A parachute jump will wind up the day's activities, and there will be enough going on during the afternoon to keep everybody interested.

Deciding that his Great Lakes didn't hold enough gasoline for the kind of trips he likes to make, brought Andy Ivanoff to the conclusion that another tank, repacing the front seat, would be the thing, and he is hard at work with the installation.

Andy has also streamlined every possible part of the ship, in order to get every possible mile of speed out of it, and when he is finished, he will have a single seater Great Lakes, capable of staying in the air for ten hours without landing.

Pat's father dies and Mrs. Dawn gives her life savings to Bryce to invest, but Guy gets them back. Bryce stops financing the piano factory. Suddenly three persons vanish, Guy, Pat and Mrs. Bryce's little boy. A note is received demanding $26,000 ransom for the boy.

CHAPTER 29

THEY could not believe their eyes and went searching through the brush for the ransom box.

Their own eyes, their own ears had betrayed them. They had seen Bryce flash his light on the flume; had heard that definite thump as he placed the box. The five men, stationed within 15 feet of the flume's outlet, had observed Bryce as he stood nervously, watch in hand, and exactly at the moment of 12 he had thrust the watch in his pocket and deposited the ransom money.

Six and a half hours ago the money was there. No one had come since the money was placed. But it and the box were gone.

Their fists struck their fists along the [illegible]. They reached in and felt the wood. They dug all about it. There was no trace of the missing package and every answer they found for the baffling disappearance was soon discredited.

[illegible] was closed on the top, [illegible] enough, but narrow; perhaps [illegible] feet deep but less than ten inches wide. No man could crawl through the space. Even a thin [illegible] could not make it, crawling. If someone or something had arrived at the mouth of the flume [illegible] stained away the ransom box [illegible] the $20,000 it contained.

They stared at each other in [illegible] anger bewilderment. All night [illegible] had watched—aware of trap[illegible] their quarry. They were [illegible] by this inexplicable failure.

[illegible] had the feat been accomplished [illegible] that no human thing had [illegible] the spot after Bryce's departure, ten men could positively swear.

Could the man have been hidden near the flume's mouth, and, reaching up, removed the box? If so, he would still be lying in the brush. They had raked it to the last leaf.

Might he have been secreted in a tree and with a pole fished the box from the flume? Rather impossible in this enveloping dark and in a silence where every sound rang out like a fire alarm. But the wildest suggestion seemed plausible in the face of this unfrustrating, mysterious disappearance.

They tore off sections of the flume covering, carefully examined sides and bottom for a possible opening into some cavern where a man might hide and whence he might adroitly reach for the bag. The flume was solid, dry and without any secret outlets. They followed it half a mile along the hill. It returned no answer to their baffled searching.

The ransom money was gone. Little Billy Bryce was not returned.

All morning Barbara Bryce sat in the living room, jumping violently with each ring of phone or door. All morning William Bryce sat with her.

They read and reread the note warning them to "WAIT!" How long would it be? How long could they endure?

By noon that Saturday the papers flashed with headlines of the ransom episode.

With the news that the police had guarded the spot Barbara collapsed.

They would kill him! There was no hope. Someone had led her child away; had come more velociously than death and lifted the little form from her arms. She might scream forever into the dark unknown that had swallowed him if it would not answer now.

Was it only last Monday—five days ago that Laura had waved goodby as Pat and Dickie climbed into the little car and Pat called, "I'm driving our son to school mother." How young how very childlike she looked with the little green hat perched rakishly on the back of her head and the shine

CAR NUMBER HELPS TRAP YOUTHS

Raiders Batter Down Barricade and Then Find Timepieces Stolen From Window

The alertness of two Boston policemen led to the arrest of three youths and the recovery of 15 watches a few hours after they are alleged to have broken the window of Kays jewelry store in Strand Theater building, Lynn, and stolen the timepieces.

The youths were arrested at gun point of East Boston police in a tenement in Marion st. after the police had broken down a barricade of furniture piled near the front door. No resistance was offered.

They gave their names as John Mercinna, 18; Henry Menard, 17 and William Jordan, 17, all of New York.

They are charged with breaking and entering and are held for the Lynn police. The watches were found in their room, police said.

According to Lynn police, Menard has a cut on the right hand in breaking the store window.

Patrolman Thomas O'Malley of Joy st. station was earlier accosted by the trio, who asked the direction of East Boston. He noticed the number of the car and later learned that the Lynn thieves had escaped in a car of the same number.

Patrolman James Graham, h. Marion st., East Boston, saw the car and telephoned his station. Sergt. Hoban and four patrolmen arrested the suspects.

The necessity of motor vehicles in carrying out the provisions of an act passed by the last Legislature for periodic inspection of motor vehicles will be enabled to charge "reasonable fees" for such inspections if the recommendations of the state department of public works are accepted by the next session of the Legislature.

The recommendations include one asking for legislation to increase the penalty for operating after a license has been revoked, so that for the first offense a violator would be liable to a $200 fine or imprisonment for [illegible] and subsequent violations of a similar nature a straight prison sentence with a maximum of one year.

School Board Agent Denounces Graft

Graft in public office were characterized as "cowardly thieves" by Alexander M. Sullivan, business manager of the Boston School Committee, in an address delivered before Hugh O'Brien School Parents' Association in the school hall.

The business manager said that to be an efficient public official a man must have honesty, courage, vision and the training and experience necessary to make him a successful administrator.

Sullivan praised the work of the school survey committee, explaining that a survey was necessary because of constant criticism of rising school costs. He said that at all times is there connection between costs and educational values, since a liberal policy of expenditure is necessary in public school education and the tax payers ungrudgingly make possible this liberality.

"The school committee exercised great wisdom in creating a survey committee, made up of business men as well as educators, to study the various types, phases and costs of public school education to the end that extravagance, if there be any, be eliminated," he said.

"Those interested in the city's welfare should not consider any [illegible] budgeting as the [illegible] of economy, but should demand the fullest [illegible] by all boards within [illegible] power to see that the taxpayers receive as close to 100 per cent value for each dollar expended as it is possible to receive.

HUNTER SICK IN BED KILLS DEER IN ONE SHOT

Slaughter for First Four Days of Bay State Season Is Reported to Be 733

Weighing 375 pounds, a seven-pronged buck shot in Otis by M. Reinard of Springfield, has brought the number of deer killed this season to 733.

This buck was classed by the fisheries and game department as the largest thus far reported. Yesterday at office closing time the total stood at 532 deer, but 201 more notifications came in today.

John Ellsworth, 63, of Charlemont, unable to get out, was dozing in his bed when his wife saw a 200-pound buck wandering through their yard. She carried a shot gun to her husband, who downed the buck with the first shot, fired through a half-open window.

Many unusual incidents were noted in the day's hunting. A father and son each killed a deer at the same moment. Louis Roch of Turner Falls, hunting near home, started up a herd of four deer. He shot a 225-pound doe and scattered the herd toward his father, Emil Roch, who killed a 150-pound buck. The first woman to kill a deer was Mrs. Marjorie Germaine of Greenfield, who shot a big buck. Elmer Sparks, 15-year-old Lee high school boy, killed a big buck.

A total of 108 deer slaughtered in western Massachusetts was reported to the department up to 4 o'clock yesterday, not including many killed just before dark.

Scores of hunters went into the woods today in preparation for early hunting on Saturday.

Weather conditions are highly favorable to hunters, for the soft snow makes tracking easy. Many owners of land have hired guards to keep people off private preserves.

MAY SUMMONS FULLER TO GAS HEARING

Counsel for the Consumers Is Not Satisfied With His Attitude in Case

Atty. Wycliffe C. Marshall, representing Boston Consolidated Gas consumers, today intimated that he may be forced to issue a formal summons to replace the friendly summons sent to former Governor Fuller for his appearance at the gas rate hearing on Dec. 17 before the public utilities commission.

Not satisfied with the position taken by Mr. Fuller that his appearance would hinge on the commission's own invitation, Marshall today wrote to the former chief executive, through Mr. Fuller's secretary, W. H. Foster, this letter:

"While it is true that the hearing is before the department of public utilities, what is heard depends upon evidence submitted by the parties to the commission for consideration.

"The petitioners must present evidence in order to prevail. Some of this evidence is testimony of witnesses offered by the petitioners.

"I know, as you say, 'that Mr. Fuller has written the commission saying that he would hold himself in readiness to appear before them at any time they might desire.'

"Mr. Fuller's readiness to appear can only be of benefit to the gas consumers, if he testifies. In court each side issues its own summons for its witnesses. Since Mr. Fuller has publicly desired to be a witness for the consumers, I have notified him of the next hearing and requested him to appear as my witness."

IS SLIGHTLY HURT IN CAPTURE

Keeps Tight Hold on Burglar Until the Police Arrive

Like the Southwest mountains when pretty Lena Cohen, 20, of 188 Congress ave., Chelsea, goes after burglars who enter her home, she gets her man.

Awakened from her sleep early today by an intruder, she first feigned sleep to form a plan of action, then slimmed the closet door on the burglar and held him prisoner until the arrival of her mother.

When the burglar made a daring attempt to get away, Miss Cohen swept after him and clung to him as he leaped out a window. When he reached the ground, eight feet below, she still clutched him and she held on until her brother-in-law came to her assistance.

After she telephoned the police Miss Cohen fainted. After being revived she was sent to Chelsea Memorial Hospital, where physicians discovered her back and left ankle had been injured.

"She's one of the pluckiest girls we know of," said Policemen Jos. Pike and James McAleenan, who took charge of the burglar. "Few girls would have the nerve to tackle an intruder the way she did."

The intruder said he was Andrew H. King of Maverick sq., Chelsea. He was charged with breaking and entering in the night time and with larceny. The police said they found a $100 watch, the property of Miss Cohen, on his person.

According to police he confessed three additional breaks in Chelsea. When arraigned today his case was continued.

CARACAS SEEKS N. E. TEXTILES

A strong demand for New England textiles in Venezuela was reported today by Frederic G Grab, assistant trade commissioner to that country.

Grab was conferring with Hugh D. Butler of the local U. S. foreign and domestic commerce department today.

"To the representatives at Caracas, one of the most striking features in Venezuela is the growing desire of textile men, who previously have concentrated on European products, to obtain the representation of New England and American cotton goods exporters," said he.

"Our textile products now are demanded by every merchant who makes any pretense of supplying the better class of customers."

SURPRISED WIFE SUES TO ANNUL 'MARRIAGE'

First Action Against Dr. Donnell Dismissed as Wedding Was Not Legal

The startling revelation that, under Massachusetts law, she was [illegible] never the legal wife of Dr Herbert A Donnell, Medford surgeon, brought a sudden and dramatic conclusion to the suit for separate support by Mrs Minnetred Donnell of Malden, in Probate Court.

Causing as it did a sensation in the colorful story told by Mrs Donnell, who accused her husband of a reversal of character due to alleged addiction to liquor and drugs, the denouement in the case caused a big surprise. Dr Daniel F. Jones of Boston had also testified that Dr Donnell was evidently a morphine addict.

Producing documentary evidence, Atty Melvin M Johnson, for the doctor proved to the satisfaction of the court that Donnell's divorce from a former wife had not become absolute at the time he went through the marriage ceremony with the present Mrs Donnell.

Judge Harris at once announced that he would dismiss Mrs Donnell's petition for separate support on the ground that she has no legal standing in this state as a wife. Attorney John H Devine a short time later filed in the probate court, in behalf of Mrs Donnell, a petition requesting annulment of the marriage.

BELLE BAKER, "QUEEN OF SONG," ADDS MET AUDIENCES TO FAN REALM

CHARMS BY STYLE OF HER OWN

The Cast

Laura Sargent	Leatrice Joy
Tony Williams	Walter Pidgeon
Humphrey Sargent	Sidney Blackmer
John Williams	Montag Love
Jean Porter	Josephine Dunn
Bradford Fish	Robert Edeson
Pedro De Cordoba	Donald Reed
Natalie Davis	Florence Dudley
Hopkins the Butler	Wilson Benge

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

BELLE BAKER just stopped the show. She had every man, woman and child in the audience at the Metropolitan under her spell. She teased them, she pleased them, she touched them lightly, and she touched them deeply, and though she comes along simply as the queen of song, this star of the stage knows her onions in acting. Belle Baker is all you have heard about her, and more.

MISS BAKER in a cycle of songs and vocal characterizations, an all-in-all splendid footlight bill, and the alluring personality of Leatrice Joy on screen, furnish the Met's high lights in the new week's program. Unfortunately, the feature picture fails to toe the good mark of the other attractions; it is "A Most Immoral Lady," Miss Joy's debut in the talkies. She deserved a better vehicle. What she is, all the fans know; talented, and most engaging in manner and looks. She is the prime favorite of a host of theater goers. But this time she is put upon the rack by the fact that the story if fanciful. Here and there are good "shots," but the tale is not only unconvincing but un-entertaining.

Belle Baker

BUT Miss Joy and Walter Pidgeon sing. She does sing well, as folks who heard her in the flesh-and-blood here recently can attest. Yet the throated camera fails far short of that singing. Of Mr. Pidgeon singing the less said the better. He has a splendid voice and speaks his lines clearly. But those lines, as is the dialogue in general, are rather flat.

MISS JOY and Mr. Pidgeon turn out in the movie to be "rotters" in truth, despite their social connections. For they "work" that old "badger game," which long ago was left to the crudest even in the crude underworld. If there be any virtue in a plot turning upon so cresky a hinge, then you may make the most of it.

BACK to Miss Baker. She is warmly greeted when she first appears and when she goes it is an ovation. She sangs numerous of her favorites, generously responding to the multiplying encores. She has a style all her own, and to appreciate and enjoy her, one must see and hear her in the flesh, as happens this week at the Met. The Publix Revue is an all girls' show—meaning that only girls appear on stage—the production being titled, "Ingenues' Gambol." They are versatile to the last degree; for one thing, they seem able to get music out of about everything under the sun. The program stays 25 of them were formerly among the Ziegfeldian glorified; they look and act their fame. Mr. Hines conducts the orchestra satisfyingly through melodies by Friml.

OLIVER TWIST TAKES LIFE IN TALKIE

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor.

Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service Inc.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6—"Oliver Twist" Charles Dickens' most melodramatic story and the best seller among the Dickens novels is to be made with dialogue as a talkie Sam Shipman, New York playwright, has been commissioned by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to write his version of Fagin, Sykes, Nancy and poor, unhappy Oliver.

Louella O. Parsons

Some seven or eight years ago Paramount made a silent version of "Oliver Twist" with Marie Doro. Some way even though Oliver is pictured as weak and effeminate, the story lacked realism with a girl playing the role. I don't believe there is any cast chosen yet by M-G-M. What about Lon Chaney as Fagin and Louis Wolheim as Sykes and Phillip De Lacy as Oliver? No extra charge for this selection.

Dickens may be hopelessly old-fashioned for this generation, but you cannot read "Oliver Twist" without being impressed with Dickens' powers of description and his ability to make his characters live. Whether the public will care for "Oliver Twist" in a talkie is another question.

"LA BOHEME" CAST SHINES BRIGHTLY

By MOSES SMITH

WITH a performance of La Boheme" at the Boston Opera House, the Boston Grand Opera Co. seemed to begin to come into its own. The performance as an all-round entity, was the best yet, indicating that once the company settles down, it will give extremely agreeable and artistic presentations. The audience was the largest of the week, an encouraging sign, indicating that people are not totally blind—or deaf—to musical bargains

Let the company follow along the lines of La Boheme, and few people need complain. There was one guest "star"—Martha Attwood of the Metropolitan Opera Company—singing Mimi, but she fitted into the scheme of things nicely. Marie Di Pesa, a local singer whose experience goes back to the old Boston Opera Company, was the Musetta. Both women sang well, and acted with feeling for their characters

Giuseppe Radaelli appeared as Rudolph, and he gave a magnificent performance. He was in splendid voice, and his singing of this music was worthy of any operatic stage in the world. He was, moreover, much more at home in this role than he had been on the opening night as Enzo Grimaldo in "Gioconda." He was applauded loudly and often during the course of the evening

Joseph Royer turned in another good performance as Marcel. His voice, of excellent quality, was beautifully used, and his actions were perhaps the most natural of any characters on the stage. Marcel and Collins, the balance of the artistic quartet, were sung by Henri Scott and Eugenio Colletti most effectively. Of course, the most important individual was not on the stage at all, but in the musicians' pit—Carlo Peroni, who gave an expressive reading to the score.

Tomorrow's opera is "The Barber of Seville."

The Opera

Rosina .....Beatrice Belkin
Bertha .....May Barron
Count Almaviva .....
.....Davide Dorlini
Figaro .....Pasquale Amato
Don Basilio ....Alfred Velenti
Don Bartolo .....
.....Giuseppe La Puma
Conductor .....
.....Gulseppe Bamboschek

SITTING BULL'S GRANDSON HERE

Chief Crazy Bull, a grandson of Sitting Bull, the Sioux chieftain who led his tribe in the Custer massacre of 1876, arrived in Boston today to speak before the Y. M. C. A. forum tonight on Indian problems.

Boston is familiar territory to this Indian chief, who saved a man from drowning in Muddy river on January 21 1927.

The chief interest of Indians on the reservation now is to secure better educational facilities." Chief Crazy Bull said as he posed for his picture in native costume with his gorgeous peace pipe. His Christian name is William Jacobs.

The ingredients of the blend smoked by Indians at tribal councils and religious ceremonies was the only question asked by reporters which the chief would not answer. This, he said, was sacred and carefully preserved by each tribe.

The tobacco smoked by friends, he said, was a blend of dried green bark of the red dog willow crushed by hand with natural tobacco leaves. His pipe was made of a young yew tree through the heart of which the draft had been burned with a sharp metal instrument. Its trimmings of dyed porcupine quills eagle and mallard duck feathers and dyed horse hair each have their own significance, he said.

B. U. SIX PLAYS UNIV. CLUB TONIGHT

College Grid Stars Gather for Great Legion Game

TEAMS DRILL TODAY AT FENWAY

COLLEGE football players from many sections of New England will converge on Boston today to receive their last instructions from the coaches for the all-star charity game to be staged tomorrow afternoon at Fenway Park under the direction of the Cross cup-Pishon Post, A. L., for the benefit of its Christmas basket fund for disabled war veterans.

Players from the northern New England colleges are due in early this morning and they will be followed at intervals by their team mates of the nonce from the more neighboring institutions.

Hotel Brunswick is the place of assembly and after lunch there this noon the players will depart for Fenway Park where they will be divided into two squads to engage in a lengthy practice session under the direction of the coaches.

The last traces of the recent snow storm were swept off the gridiron in sufficient time to permit the sun to dry up the few damp spots and indications were that the players will have an excellent underfoot conditions to go through the plays which have been mapped out by Arthur Sampson of Tufts and Joe McKenney of Boston College.

The coaches plotted their plays with the idea of fitting them to the previous instructions that their numerous charges have received under the various systems with which they have been familiar. It is said will be the best collection of talented football players ever assembled on a New England gridiron.

BATTLE OF ENDS

Probably the outstanding feature of the game will be the demonstration of end play which will be given by Hal Booma of Dartmouth, Charley Murphy of Boston College and A. Azzarni and Ted Kucharski of Holy Cross.

Football connoisseurs rate that quartet with the foremost ends of the season in any section of the country, and it is doubtful if any other section could produce as many outstanding players.

Reports at the legion headquarters indicated that practically every college coach of any consequence in New England will be at the game, not only to see demonstrations of the various types of position play as they will be put on, but also to watch those noted ends in action. Tommy Longeneker, the Dartmouth quarterback, will have Booma in an alien uniform this time, as Kucharski and Azzarni have been designated as the ends on the team he will direct.

The chief interest of the players probably will be centered on Nelson Munson, the Brown guard, who has the distinction of having played through every minute of every game of his team's schedule. He naturally will be closely examined to see what durable qualities he possessed which they lack, because only a regular football player himself can appreciate what his record must mean.

MANY ANALYSTS TO PLAY

Many of the players from remote colleges are eager to get into the game because it will provide them with their only chance to play on a Boston gridiron before big throngs.

From the weather forecasters the legion sponsors have learned that a fair and reasonably warm afternoon is expected for tomorrow and that is all that remains to insure the game as the greatest football spectacle that Boston ever has seen.

The sale of every ticket means another basket on Christmas day to the less fortunate service men who emerged from the war physically impaired, yet the legionaires have pushed that angle into the background, exploiting only the fact that every person will receive a full return on his money with the promise of a well-played game of football between two excellent teams.

The excellent re-action by the members of the Dartmouth squad was particularly gratifying to the post because of the fact that it developed part of its game from Spuddy" Pishon, a Dartmouth athlete who was shot down in an airplane fight in France. Pishon, prior to going to Dartmouth, was an outstanding schoolboy athlete at English high

Tickets for the game are on sale at the various down town sports goods stores and also at Fenway Park.

Plenty of Courses

There are 2500 18-hole golf courses in the United States. There are in addition 1000 nine-hole layouts.

MR. BOSTON
By JACK CONWAY

Jack Conway

"IF you are looking for me tomorrow afternoon," said Mr. Boston, "you can direct your radiograms to the press box at Fenway Park."

"What a the big idea?" pressed Freddy Lane, who is still a member in good standing of the Revere Improvement Association.

I'm going to take in the football battle which will be staged by the Cross a cup-Pishon Post, A. L., for its Christmas basket fund. The tussle is being billed as an 'Army' vs. 'Navy' affair.

"Joe McKenney of Boston College will direct one team, while the other will strut its stuff with Arthur Sampson of Tufts as the general-issimo.

"And what a couple of whirlwind teams these coaches have picked up for the game tomorrow afternoon.

"McKenney has Cole and Booma of Dartmouth, Louder and Fitz of Bates, Weiss, Sweeney, Finn, Dougherty, Manfredi and Cullum of Holy Cross, Murphy, Creedon, Lyons and Green of Boston College; Munroe of Brown, Hamilton of Middlebury, Tansey of Norwich, Cox, Bradley and Ellert of Massachusetts Aggies and Bianchi of New Hampshire.

"SAMPSON also has what would make a whale of an 'All' team in any league. Listed among the players are Kucharski, Alzerini, Clancy and Cannon, Holy Cross; Herman and Convery, Boston College; Dincolo, Carnie, Tutten and Barrett, Boston University; Mann, Massachusetts Aggies; Munson and Babcock, Brown; Longeneker, Jeremiah and McDonough, Dartmouth; Shea, New Hampshire; Guarnaccia and McLeod, Middlebury; Waining, Norwich, Sandi, Providence, and Fuller, Bates.

"These are real all-star outfits. The game will give the fans an opportunity to see one of the greatest football games of the season.

"The players are in the best of condition as they have been playing football all fall.

"IN addition to witnessing a bang-up game, you will be helping a marvelous charity. Every cent paid for tickets will go towards purchasing food for the poor at Christmas.

"There isn't any rival attraction tomorrow afternoon. So let everybody who can, take in the game at Fenway Park. And in the event you are unable to attend the game, give a donation to the Crosscup-Pishon Post for its Christmas Fund."

MIKE CRISS called Mr. Boston on the telephone and tipped him that he has Eddie Curley, newsboy champion, batting Pete Nebo in Philadelphia on Monday night.

"This bout will give Curley an opportunity to break into the big money," said Mr. Boston. "Nebo is one of the best featherweights in the world. The other night in New York he had Al Singer on the verge of a knockout when he ran into a kayo himself. If Curley can licit Nebo, he will be a big shot in the fistic racket.

"Good luck, Eddie. You are in for a big time in having Mike Criss as manager. Mike is one of the best handlers of boxers in the country.

"I UNDERSTAND that Henry Lamar, who has gone under the management of Johnny Buckley, has started training for a new drive in the heavyweight division. Lamar is capable of defeating a great many of the big fellows."

Americans Beaten by Cougars, 3-2

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 6—New York Americans took their sixth National Hockey League beating in seven starts, the Detroit Cougars downing them, 3 to 2.

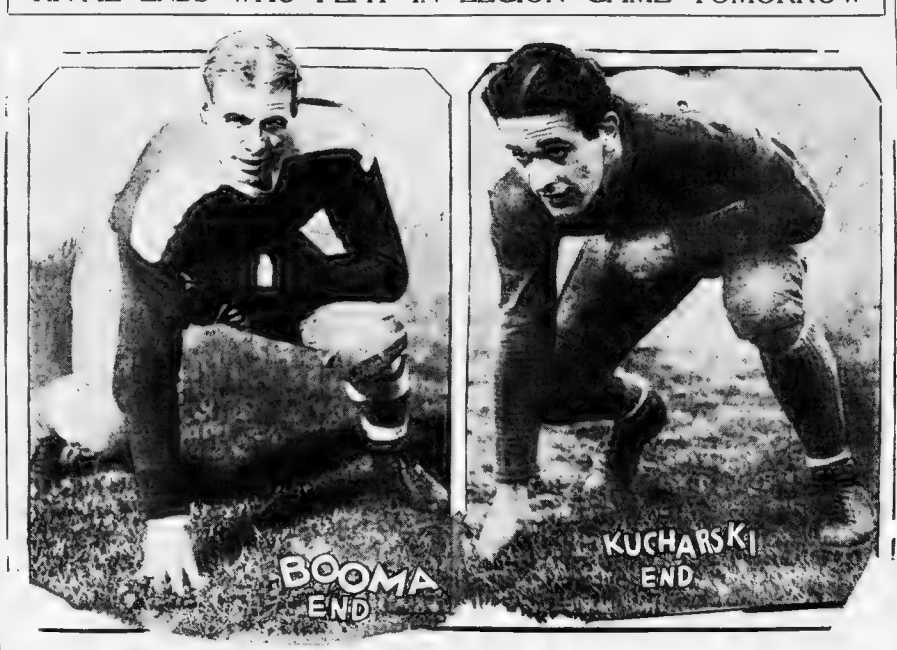
RIVAL ENDS WHO PLAY IN LEGION GAME TOMORROW



Hal Booma, Dartmouth, and Ted Kucharski, Holy Cross, who will oppose each other on the wings in the charity Legion game at Fenway Park tomorrow. The greatest array of football talent ever assembled in New England will be seen in action when the two all-star college teams clash.

Carrigan Undecided About Returning

BILL CARRIGAN hasn't decided whether he will manage the Red Sox in 1930, or retire once more from baseball.

William came down from Lewiston this morning and had a conference with President Bob Quinn at Fenway Park.

"I can't tell for 10 days or two weeks," he told the Sox prexy. "If I will be able to manage the ball club next season. I would like to stay in the game, but I am tied up with so many other things that I may find it impossible.

"As soon as I get matters ironed out I will let you know at once."

Carrigan, who has big mutton interests in Maine, has not been in the best of health since the close of the baseball season. He fears that the strain of trying to build a ball club at the Fenway has permanently impair his health.

Bill has been entertaining members of the Red Sox team at his Winthrop, Me., camp, and the open life has washed away most of his worries. But he knows that another try with the lowly Sox may quickly bring back the nerve strain that has worn him down for the past three years.

President Quinn tried to get a definite answer on the proposition today, but couldn't gether more than Bill's promise to reach a decision as soon as possible.

Meantime, the Red Sox Club has made no definite spring training plans, nor has the customary winter business been going according to normal schedule.

The Sox prexy admits that he is still hopeful that Bill, whom he considers the greatest of baseball managers, will come back.

Mrs. Tuohey Back as Mat Promoter

This country's only feminine wrestling promoter will offer the big all-star mat program at the Boston Arena on the night of Dec. 11. She is Mrs. George Tuohey, co-partner with Leslie Showers of Wichita, Kans., the Hub's newest grappling impresario.

The wife of the late well-liked Boston mat promoter, George Dubuc, Mrs. Tuohey learned quite a bit about the promoting end of the game assisting her husband with his work prior to his untimely death.

The main event will send the recognized Greek champion, George Kotsonoras, into battle against that huge Russian title-holder, John Pudubny. This should be a great bout believes Mrs. Tuohey who says she signed Kotsonoras because he is so popular with the mat fan of the Hub.

Pudubny, nephew to the veteran of the same name, who wrestled here three years ago, is said to be one of the greatest powerhouses grapplers Russia has ever sent to America. The bout will be to a finish.

Walcek Zbyszko, the ex-heavyweight champion of the world, will return to Boston to engage Jack Taylor, Canadian champion, in the semi-windup.

Other bouts on the bill include Tommy Drask champion of the Netherlands, vs. Joe Wagner, the Providence flash; and Jack Sherry sensational Ohio heavyweight, vs Big Bob Wiklie the recognized heavyweight champion of Michigan.

Braves Will Start Spring Training on February 20

The Boston Braves will open their training season Feb. 20 at St. Petersburg, Fla., and will be quartered at the West Coast Inn, which is directly opposite Waterfront park, where they practice and play all their exhibitions games.

The first game of the spring campaign will be played March 8 at Waterfront park with the New York Yanks.

James Neary will return to the Braves as trainer in place of Dr. Al Parker, who had the position last year. Neary will have for his assistant John J. McPartland.

New York, Dec. 6 (AP)—The fifth day of the six-day bicycle race at Madison Sq. Garden found four weary teams deadlocked for the leadership.

At the 107th hour these combinations were at even terms, 1671 miles and 9 laps: Georgetti-Debaets, Beckman-Winter, Letourner-Brocardo and McNamara-Zelloni.

Only a lap behind and closely pressing the pack were two hard-riding teams: Spencer-Deulberg and Hill-Walthour.

The early morning rising was marked by many sprints and lap-stealing. Since the long grind started 285 laps have been pilfered

Refuses Million for Reigh Count

Chicago, Dec. 6 (AP)—John D. Hertz, Chicago sportsman, has refused an offer of $1,000,000, the largest bid on record, for his champion thoroughbred, Reigh Count—and can't understand why anyone should offer that much money for a horse, nor why he rejected the bid.

The offer was made by W. T. Waggoner, Texas millionaire owner of horses wearing the Three D silks, and immediately was refused.

Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 6 (AP)—Guy Waggoner, son of W. T. Waggoner, owner of the Three D racing stable and Arlington Downs, denied today that his father had offered $1,000,000 for Reigh Count.

He said he understood the offer was made by a former employe of the Three D stable, but denied the man had any authority to act for Waggoner.

Del Bissonette to Undergo Operation

New York, Dec. 6 (AP)—Del Bissonette, first baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers, has arrived in New York to undergo an operation for sinus trouble.

Bissonette was an outstanding first-year man in 1928, batting .309 and standing fourth in home runs with 25. Sinus trouble handicapped him badly last season and his batting dropped off 60 points.

Bruins Set for Tilt With Detroit Six

THE Bruins had another practice session at the Garden today, and all hands are ready to go at top speed against the Detroit Cougars in the game at the Garden tomorrow night.

That contest will be the first there Bruins have played this season on a Saturday night, and there is every indication that another capacity crowd will see the teams play, though seats still are available.

Seldom have the Bruins given a greater exhibition of hockey than against Les Canadiens, and the wonder of the dazzling and superb skating of the Bruins that night, is only greater when it is realized that the team was playing its third game in four nights and had been on the trains for 24 hours before that contest.

With a good rest, and some much needed practice, the Bruins should be even faster and stronger tomorrow night.

Detroit has a fine young forward in Ebbie Goodfellow and of course has Aurie and Bobbie Connors who impressed so much in the games Detroit played here a year ago. Carson Cooper, a former Bruin, is with the team, and George Hay and Reg Noble are veterans.

Tickets for the game were to be had at the agencies and at the Garden today and there will be 1500 rush seats tomorrow night as well as 2000 admissions.

TERRIER SIX IN OPENER TONIGHT

Lineup at Arena

BOSTON UNIV.		UNIV. CLUB
Lombard, lw	rw	Everett
Currier, c	c	Chase
Whitmore, rw	lw	Hilliard
Bergholtz, rd	rd	A. Bigelow
Elliot, rd	ld	H. Bigelow
Grodberg, g	g	Newell

Game called at 8:15.

BOSTON UNIVERSITY and the University Club hockey sixes will cross sticks in the first amateur game of the season at the Arena tonight.

Both teams present veteran lineups, and a close hard game is expected when these two sixes, representing the best in college and club hockey, clash.

The Terriers will not be lacking in supporters, but will have the backing of a large crowd of student followers who will be on hand to lend their aid in the attempt to start the season off with a victory. The B U band will attend in uniform, to provide music and add color to the occasion.

A victory in tonight's game is needed to get the Terriers in the mental condition necessary for the approaching games with Harvard, Yale, Princeton and others.

Coach Wasland F. Vaupen has worked hard with his charges for the past month with this end in view and in spite of the many stars in the club lineup, B. U. will go right after their more experienced opponents from the opening whistle in hopes of getting away to a flying start.

The Terrier forward line of Lombard, Currier and Whitmore has worked together for the last two seasons and should give the University Club defensive trio a busy evening.

Lombard is the high scorer among the forwards and is the man who will give the clubmen plenty of worry, but Currier and Whitmore are just as dangerous and although not packing such a good shot as Lombard, manage to break through the defense for close shots.

Buck Bergholtz and Bob Elliot on the Terrier defense are a pair of rugged hockey players who know how to body check effectively and are not at all backward in putting this knowledge to use. In addition to shining on defense, both of these men are dangerous.

Bert Grodberg in goal for B. U. is starting his first game but he is no greenhorn at net play as he was an understudy to Sid Silberberg in this position for two years. Grodberg should hold his own tonight if he overcomes his one weakness of letting pucks net.

The University Club lineup includes a number of old favorites plus the addition of the Bigelow twins, who starred for Harvard for the past two seasons, on defense. The club defense for the club six has a distinct Crimson tinge with the Bigelow brothers in front of and Newell in the nets.

ANDRISANO PUNCHED WAY TO FRONT

A 19-year-old giant, who tips the beam at 215 pounds and who steps around the ring with the speed of a welterweight, will make his first bid for recognition within the ropes when Willie Andrisano of East Boston leads a team of Hub amateurs against the representative champions of New York, Grand Rapids, Toronto and Montreal in the big international boxing tournament to be staged at the Boston Arena on Monday night.

Andrisano, who has never before appeared in a big tournament, confining his activities to the smaller clubs, was selected as one of the Hub heavyweight representatives. He will be teamed with Tony Ceccini of Charlestown, and Joe Gill of New York and Bill Brown of Toronto, Canadian rugby star, will be their opponents.

The Noddle Island boy, who isn't any relation to the professional star of the same name, has been fighting only a year and Tommy McFarland, who is handling his affairs, predicts that he'll be on the top in another year.

Although he has competed in only 21 bouts, he has won most of them by the knockout route. He clinched his place on the team last week when he scored two successive knockouts at Mechanics Building.

Andrisano is the biggest young heavyweight who has come to the front in many years and for this reason his presence is certain to arouse keen interest among the fans. The selection of the two heavyweights completely rounded out the Hub team of 16 boxers for the big tournament, which promises to attract the largest early season crowd in the history of the amateurs in this city.

With bouts in all championship classes on the card, no doubt the fans will get plenty of action. There will be three bouts in each class providing a tournament consisting of 24 bouts, quite sufficient for the most exacting follower of the simon pure mitt wielders.

It is expected that most of the out of town boxers will be in the Hub by tomorrow to complete their training at Jim Toland's gymnasium. With the Dorchester Post A. E. F. band on hand and with the ice from the Arena surface removed, the tournament is expected to prove a big success.

Judging by the demands for tickets at the Hub A. A. and downtown ticket office at room 415, No. 333 Washington st, the boxers of the five cities will be greeted by an overflow crowd.

Fight Only Thrill in Ottawa Game

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 6—Ottawa's Senators defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs by a 9-2 score.

The game was not regarded that the fans began to lose interest until Cotton and Lamb enlivened the third period with fistcuffs as an added attraction. After shoving each other around at every opportunity, they began a real battle near the end.

Police had to venture on the ice to stop the fracas. The principals got major penalties. In all, 10 sentences were handed out, 10 going to Toronto.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
"Golf's Greatest Teacher"

I want to see you advanced players get those scores still lower and to that end I feel the best service I can possibly give you is to warn you of the faults that run your scores up and to remind you that these habits can so easily be corrected. Most of them are due to plain golf carelessness and the use of wrong principles of play — not wrong principles of club swinging. For instance, suppose you start a round and use up 7 on a comparatively easy first hole with a par 4. What's the thing to do then? Well, not what you usually do, which is get mad and disgusted and thus spoil a round in which you might have made a very fine score despite the 7. Only the other day I saw a golfer start 7, 6, 5 on 4-4-4 holes and finish his out with a 38. Had his start had the effect on him that such a start might have on you, he could have been out in 50. The start is not the whole of a round of golf unless you make it so. The main thing to do with a bad hole is forget it—and the same rule applies exactly to three bad holes in a row. You can never score if you have the habit of abandoning your game because of a bad shot or a bad hole.

10 MATCHES FOR "H" FENCERS

Harvard's fencing team will engage in 10 matches this winter according to announcements made at the H. A. A. today. The schedule calls for matches with seven college teams, a specially arranged match with the Harvard Club of New York, and participation in the New England divisions next April.

Colgate opens the season with the Crimson swordsmen at Cambridge on Jan. 4. The remainder of the schedule is as follows: Feb. 12, M. I. T.; Feb. 21, New York University at New York; Feb. 22, Penn at Philadelphia; March 1, Army at West Point, and on the same day, Harvard Club of New York at New York; March 8, Columbia, March 15, Yale; April 5, New England division semi-finals at New Haven; April 17 and 18 finals at New Haven.

Competing in fully half its matches away from home constitutes a record for the Harvard team. Coach Rene Pereyo, who as an amateur was considered one of the foremost swordsmen in the country, expects to develop a fine team from the material available this year.

Danny MacFayden Keeps Busy Between Seasons

By JOE CASHMAN

The bespectacled Somerville youth, who pitches some very fine baseball for Bob Quinn's Red Sox during the summer months, believes in hustling 12 months a year.

AT the close of the past season he engaged a two weeks' vacation up at Bill Carrigan's camp at Wolfeboro, Me., and then motored down to Texas, with his pal and boy scout, Jack Russell, to spend a few days at the latter's home.

This respite from toil enabled him to add a few pounds to his rod-and-pistol frame and put him in perfect physical condition.

So as soon as he returned to the Hub, he started job hunting. He didn't have to hunt long for a year ago he was employed by a local sporting goods house and proved such a fine salesman that the firm put him in charge in bring him again this season.

HE will continue to dispense athletic goods until after the holiday season, when he will resume his hockey coaching duties at Hebron Academy, a berth he has successfully held down for several seasons.

That assignment finished he will pack his bags and trek southward to Pinehurst, N. C., where he will prepare for another diamond campaign.

Danny looks forward to having his most successful big league season next year. He is heavier than at any time since he broke in and his arm is in perfect shape.

IF he knows whether Bill Carrigan will return to manage the Sox or where the club will train, he is mute on both subjects.

But, while he doesn't say so, there is no doubt that he is hoping Carrigan will come back for he credits the Lewiston pilot for the great improvement he has shown since joining the Sox.

PLAN FOR BIG COLLEGE MEET

Athletic directors and managers of the six Greater Boston colleges will convene at the invitation of the Harvard Athletic Association at the Harvard Club December 12 to discuss plans for a Greater Boston Intercollegiate track and field meet to be held at Harvard Stadium, May 2 and 3, 1930.

The colleges to be represented at the meeting are Harvard, Boston College, Boston University, Tufts, M. I. T. and Northeastern University.

This meeting will be the first of its kind ever held among the colleges.

The meet, scheduled for May 2 and 3, will be one of the largest ever staged in the Stadium, with the possible exception of the Olympic tryouts. Approximately 800 athletes will figure in the 15 events planned.

Not only will the meet have varsity competition, but the freshmen teams of the various colleges will compete at the same time. Trials will be held the first day and the championships will be held the following day.

Diegel and Hagen in Semi-Final Today

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6 (AP)—Meeting for the fourth time in the history of the Professional Golfers' Association championship, Leo Diegel of Detroit and Walter Hagen of Rochester, N. Y., clashed in the semi-final of the event, many Pat experts here set the Hillcrest links star a favorite for one of them.

The "Wasp" was seeking revenge. It was Diegel who beat Hagen, Walter here in the third round of the test at Baltimore a year ago.

The Agua Caliente pride said in the other hand has a cherished title at stake and he pointed [illegible] evening the P. G. A. series with the great Hagen.

4 MAJOR GAMES FOR ARMY

West Point, N. Y., Dec. 6 (AP)—The army's football team with Maj. Ralph Sasse holding the coaching reins relinquished by "Biff" Jones, will content itself with four major games next fall all of them in eastern territory.

Announcement of the 1930 schedule by Maj.-Gen. William Smith, superintendent of the military academy, today revealed a program of 10 games with battles against Harvard, Yale, Illinois and Notre Dame as the high spots.

The cadets met this same "Big Four" this season and still have a contest with a fifth big-time opponent, Stanford at Palo Alto, December 28. Apparently Army schedule makers felt that the 1929 program of 11 games, five of major importance, was a trifle too much. In the four big games Navy played to date the Cadets have gotten nothing better than a tie with Harvard, losing to Yale, Illinois and Notre Dame.

Sept. 28—Boston University at West Point.
Oct. 4—Furman at West Point.
Oct. 11—Swarthmore at West Point.
Oct. 18—Harvard at Cambridge.
Oct. 25—Yale at New Haven.
Nov. 1—North Dakota at West Point.
Nov. 8—Illinois at New York.
Nov. 15—Kentucky, Michigan at West Point.
Nov. 22—Trinity at West Point.
Nov. 28—Notre Dame at New York.

THREE LATIN SCHOOLBOYS ON TEAM

By BILL CONNELL

AN All-Boston school eleven [illegible] Boston [illegible]

Boston Latin School [illegible] had a big season this year [illegible] Manton had the most record [illegible] Boston team with [illegible] defeat to mar the [illegible] late.

However, the Boston [illegible] teams do not play outside [illegible] schools very often so it is difficult properly to compare the individual players of the Boston schools with the boys of the big suburban cities, except in the case of a boy who is outstandingly capable in his Hub school grid work.

The Boston schoolboys have a place all to themselves in the school grid world. So it only is fair to select an "All" team whose members shall be drawn exclusively from the ranks of the Hub public schools.

RABINOVITZ QUARTER

Irving Rabinovitz, Boston Latin, has been picked as quarterback of the team. This lad played every position in the backfield this year but when piloting the team his work was best.

Jimmy Aieta, halfback of Dorchester, shone in every game. He is fast and a good player in every department.

Bob Curran, South Boston, was another fine back. Teamed up with Aieta, Curran was [illegible] at his best, and these two would give any opponent a tough time through four full periods.

Dick Coull, Latin, is also a great fullback for this beautiful football was one of the finest schoolboy punters of the year, and his weight made him a valuable part of the Latin offense when line plunging was needed.

The Boston school "All" line would be great. Jimmy Splaine and Paul Hilli of South Boston and Mechanic Arts, respectively, are splendid wingmen. Both can grab passes that any ordinary end would not even touch. Each is ut terly fearless when breaking up the interference and attack of an opposing team. In all of their games these boys stood out.

Dave Bogans of Latin and Tom Donahue of English [illegible] posts. What a pair! Lads [illegible] on offense and defense, any [illegible] that tried to run through either of these lads would find his evening rough. On offense they opened big holes and were down the field under punts, often before the ends.

Al Treselius and Johnny Meaney of Hyde Park and Dorchester, in that order, are ideal guards. Meaney is an all around gridder and can do a fine job in any position on the line or in the backfield. It would be hard to pick a better pair of guards than these boys.

CONNELL "WHOLE LINE"

Last, but not least, the center of the All team, Jack Connell of Mechanic Arts. One capable gridcritic said: "Other boys were good centers, but Connell was almost a whole line. And to all his ability when playing is joined a keen knowledge of how to take care of his mates. Jack Connell, football player, and great leader makes an ideal captain for the "All" team.

No second or third [illegible] have been picked, so two [illegible] men, and two utility backs are selected.

Joe Larkin of East Boston, and Johnny O'Neil of Charlestown, would fill in splendidly at any position in the backfield.

There would be a team second to none. This Hub "All" team would have a strong, fast backfield, and an intelligent, hard charging line.

And the boys on the honor roll could step in and capably fill the shoes of any of the lads on the first string team.

Boston Evening American All-Hub School Eleven

Passing the Puck

By BILL GRIMES

JUDGING from the defeat the Eagles pinned on the Tigers, the New Haven outfit still has the number of the Canadian-American League champions. It was just one of those nights when Manager Eddie Powers' men could not get started, and the result was that the Eagles are now on even terms with the local favorites.

The abolition of hockey at Boston College has cast a number of fine players adrift. It would be to the advantage of such organizations as the B. P. O. E. or the Pere Marquette Council to corral these players and get into the game.

Bert Corbeau, who made his first appearance here as an official last Tuesday night, says that Sprague Cleghorn was the greatest of all time defense players. Coming from such a player as Corbeau, who ranked with the best points hockey ever produced, this is a great tribute to the former Bruin.

The Toronto Maple Leafs pull a one of those things when they went on the air and predicted that the Stanley Cup would be taken from Boston this season and reside in the Toronto Arena for the next year. The fans are now referring to the Maple Leafs as the "October Champions."

If he continues to go as he has, Yank Boyd will not owe the Tigers a penny at the clo se of the Tigers a penny at the close of the season. He has taken the town by storm, and is the best box office attraction the Can-Am, champions ever offered the fans.

"Dit" Clapper is handicapped by a bad leg but he insists, to Manager Art Ross, that he is O. K. If Clapper plays pro hockey for 20 years, he will always be an amateur at heart, in theirs fighting for dear old Boston.

After playing for three years without signing a National Hockey League contract, it would be interesting to learn if Ching Johnson of the New York Rangers altered his John Hancock to a regularly recognized parchment or another one of those Madison Sq. Garden Corp. documents.

Just watch Barry Wood step into that first Harvard line. He is as proficient on the runners as he is on the gridiron or the diamond and he and Johnny Garrison will battle it out for the center ice berth.

Another football star who will be heard from in hockey this winter is Bill Morton of Dartmouth. Morton captained the Green freshman team last winter and it is presumed that he will win a berth on the varsity without any undue trouble.

GORILLA JONES ON WAY HERE

After a spectacular six-round knockout over Nick Testo, a rugged middleweight, at Akron, O., last Wednesday night, Gorilla Jones is on his way to Boston today for a meeting with Jackie Fields of Los Angeles, world's welterweight champion, at the Boston Garden a week from tonight.

Gorilla's knockout of Testo caused quite a stir in fistic circles as such a finish was unexpected, in view of the fact that Testo has met all the topnotchers without serious casualty until he stepped in with Jones.

This welterweight gem should prove one of the most exciting bouts ever staged in the Hub, for Fields is regarded as just as dangerous a puncher as Jones. In fact, it was Fields' crushing right-hand punch which carried him to the title.

B. C. Gridmen Give Reynolds Wallet

Frank Reynolds, retiring as graduate manager of athletics at Boston College, has been presented with a wallet of ostrich leather by the members of the 1929 Eagle football squad.

The Maroon and Gold gridders gave Reynolds this gift in appreciation for his favors to them during the campaigns they served under his rule.

Reynolds is still in office at the Heights and will be there until January when his contract expires.

POOR DEVIL

IT LOOKS WORSE THAN EVER FOR MICHIGAN BEAUTY

PALACES OF SIN Ruth Wilmore, the Michigan Beauty, is said to attend a supper at the box of wealthy widow. The author, fearing what may happen seeks to protect the young and innocent girl, but a little puzzled as to the best way to proceed, as he has not made her acquaintance, so he dispatches a note to her requesting leave to act as protector. For his trouble he received the following reply.

Dear Sir: I appreciate your modest attempt to help me, but I am pained to inform you that my escort will attend the party with Senator Alonzo.

Yours truly,
Theodora

I had the note," says the author, "and as I tore it to bits and cast aside I felt as though my veins would burst trying to control my anger, as Alonzo X was one of the worst whelps that ever went unhung, however he had money, which is all that rotten society demands, all—

Justice—The conclusion reached by 12 good men who want to get back to business.

Court rules that a man is not drunk if he can speak coherently. On the other hand, he is not sober when he says "I got the best li'l wife in the worl'—"

No man is drunk until he lies face downward on the turf
And holds on to the grass to keep from falling off the earth

DOES YOUR PERFUME EXPRESS YOURSELF?

Its Artful Use Great Aid to Attractiveness

By MARIA JERITZA

WHO does not prefer the flower that is fragrant? Some blossoms, quite insignificant in themselves, are universal favorites because of their fresh, delicate odor, spicy perfume or suggestion of the mysterious fragrance of the Orient. As long as we prefer flowers with a sweet scent, we shall enjoy using perfume ourselves, and appreciate its artful use by others.

Maria Jeritza

First of all I am going to suggest one of two important "don'ts regarding the use of perfume. Don't use a heavy scent when you are to be shut up indoors for long periods with other people, as in an office, for instance, during business hours. However lovely such a perfume may be in itself, it is distracting, and so, out of place in a business atmosphere.

Neither should a heavy scent be used in a crowded ballroom, where it may prove overpowering, or while one is engaged in sports. I would suggest for every woman two distinct perfumes—a faint fresh flower odor for daytime use and a richer, possibly more exotic, perfume for evening hours.

There are ever so many ways in which you can use perfume as the last touch of daintiness in making your toilet.

Of course immaculate soap and water cleanliness is the foundation of daintiness and there is no substitute for that, for instance, lavender in your favorite fragrance you can sprinkle lavender bath salts into your tub or rinsing water after your bath, scrub yourself with lavender-scented soap and after your vigorous rub-down dust your body with lavender-scented talc powder.

In each of your bureau drawers you can lay a three-inch square of absorbent cotton divided into two layers, with dried lavender scattered between the two layers. This can be renewed from time to time and should keep your lingerie, hosiery and handkerchiefs delicately fragrant. I mentioned lavender because it is a universally-liked, mild, daytime perfume. But almost any perfume you fancy can be bought in sets including bath salts, toilet and bath soap, bath, talcum sachet and face powder, rouge toilet-water and essence.

Good perfume is expensive, but it is wise to use only the best, buying it in small quantities and applying it sparingly. For a cheap perfume is likely to offend instead of please others. Try the perfume, this is usually permitted in the shops, by placing a bit on the back of your hand. Soon the alcohol will evaporate and there will be left only the delightful scent of the extract. This is the way to apply both toilet water and extracts and also paste perfume—not on the clothing but a tiny bit back of each ear, at the corner of the mouth, around the edge of the hair, or on the palm of the hand. Toilet water may be sprinkled with an atomizer over the hair or used to scent the rinsing water in washing the hands, or it can be dabbed on the forehead. Many toilet waters, especially eau de cologne, are excellent astringents and skin tonics.

Tiny sachets tucked inside your hat-lining or under the fur cuffs and collar of your coat will carry their whiff of fragrance.

Never use more than one variety of perfume at once. Experiment until you find the fragrance that best expresses you, then make such lavish use of it that it will, indeed, become part of your personality.

The Death of Love

DRAWN BY Nell Brinkley

WHAT price that peculiar joy of making up after a quarrel?

You may have fun fighting it, we will admit. Witness with what joy a little boy takes himself into one, and an Irishman wades into one even when it's a private fight and nothing to himself. Art there is a delight that is . . . to tears in anguish and with the one that you have had a mind on after the quarrel is over and done . . . but the "fun you gi isn't worth i"

Do you know the price you pay, with repetition? Nothing less than the grievous one of the death of Love. Repetition of spats and pettings is the death of him.

After the first one he's quite bright, even hilarious, there IS a time, along with you and your Sweetie. It's the dazzling relief, you see, from pain, and hurt, and surprise, and fright, and suspense. NOW it's all o . No one meant what they said. You believe each other. Love believes you both.

Then there is a next time—and a next—and another. Tootie begins to believe what Sweetie says when he is mad, and he does the same. Sweetie begins to find it harder and harder to believe Tootie when she says she didn't mean it. He thinks she MUST mean it by this time—and then she doesn't look so good when she is mad as she did at first. And Tootie does the same in her thoughts of him.

And weeping between them, weary of the whole thing, hoping this is the last quarrel and make-up for the sparkle is wearing off Cupid, poor thing, and he's When the petting time comes after the evening, and the sun comes out, and the dove of peace flutters on with the olive branch, and Tootie and Sweetie are sitting on a rosy cloud, he still sits with his head in his hands and can't summon a flutter of happin- s to his pretty wings. He droops. And groans. What price make-ups?"

And one fine day, after an orgy of uncontrol, just as the sky clears, Tootie and Sweetie will look about for their little beloved aide-kick, and find him with his tiny hands folded, bright stars burning 'round him, the air still sweet, anguishingly sweet with the dreams he dreamed—dead.

What price the peculiar joy of making up?

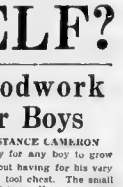
By CONSTANCE CAMERON

IT is a pity for any boy to grow up without having for his very own a good tool chest. The small toy tools are worse than none, just as any materials of inferior quality given to a child will inevitably result in poor workmanship which kills all desire to go further with the work and evokes no feeling of achievement. Get your boy good tools. And give him a place, a room or part of the barn, or the garage, or a place which is dry in the base ment, and let him make things.



Lucy Lowell

Wooden boxes open up a big field of endeavor for your boy, even though he is only a little lad. A child can drive nails long before we intrust him to saw, but we are afraid to let him try. Show him how to be careful to hit the NAIL only and the accidents won't be many nor serious.

Two orange crates can be turned into a wonderful doll house for sister or the small boy by merely nailing them together on two sides. This gives you four rooms entirely open. The addition of a roof, including the attendant attic, lies with the age and ability of the young carpenter.

An empty soap box is a good basis for a cart. Let the boy take small wheels from an old cart and attach them, or saw round wheels. This is, obviously, more difficult. I have seen children attach two pairs of roller skates as wheels for a cart of this type.

The small boxes, such as starch comes in, having their sliding covers, may be nailed one on top of the other, with the covers sliding out toward the sides, and make a lovely cupboard for small sister's doll dishes.

Your tiny lad will amaze you when he gets started on his box building campaign. The idea will be carried out with the boys of school age all over the country probably, but don't forget that little brother can, too, make simple things if you let him try.

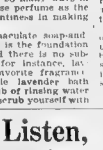
Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

DR ALFRED ADLER has started a MARRIAGE CLINIC in Vienna—a repair shop for romance when it needs it.



Elsie Robinson

Lots have become stripped and it no longer hits on all six.

Nothing new about the idea. Judge Ben Lindsey has been hammering away at it for years. But we Americans haven't cottoned to his plan. The very suggestion that people need instruction for marriage, just as they do for the medical and legal professions or the plumbing and baking trades, gives our Puritan souls the heebie-jeebies. We prefer to pass the buck to Gran and end in the divorce court. Which we are doing with record success.

Now comes Dr. Adler and with one scientific gesture he sweeps away our romantic twaddle. Dr. Adler doesn't believe that marriages are made in heaven. He thinks that they are made right here on earth, by well meaning but stupid people, and that much more than Love is needed to make marriage a success. He believes that most of our shameful tragedies arise from our ignorance. Ignorance of ourselves—ignorance of each other—ignorance of the profession of matrimony. Education is Dr. Adler's cure for the divorce evil, and in his opinion, AN OUNCE OF EDUCATION IS WORTH A TON OF ROMANCE.

"Unhappiness in marriage," Dr. Adler says, 'is merely a mistake, a defect in one's life pattern. When two people quarrel it is not for the reason they suppose. The true cause must be sought far back in forgotten disturbances in childhood. It is the task of the marriage counselors to dig down to these poisonous roots and bring them up to the light of day, where they will be no more harm.

When a warring couple comes to Dr. Adler's Marriage Clinic they are turned over to three psychiatric 'marriage advisors,' separately and asked to give their life stories, down to the last dream and the dimmest memory. Somewhere in the jumbled mass of these will be found the real reason why Mary and John chase Sam.

Some of Dr. Adler's theories will certainly be news to the neighbors.

"To the psychologist polygamy is cowardly. The man who looks down on women . . . is in reality the man who is afraid of them. He becomes a Don Juan because in the one way to belittle the sex."

Well, maybe . . . but if so, a lot of our boys do surely enjoy being "afraid cats."

But aren't there's another theory about wives suffering because they feel inferior to their husbands—because they are denied, from birth, to believe that men are superior.

"THE AMERICAN WIFE, WHO SUFFERS FROM AN INFERIORITY COMPLEX IS SO RARE THAT SHE SHOULD BE PUT UNDER GLASS AND LABELED

Vacation Love Problem

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX.

Last summer I met a young man and fell madly in love with him. I went around with him once or twice and he treated me splendidly.

The week before he left for home because he does not live here he spoke to me, but acted as if he didn't care. So the night before he left I called to him and mentioned that he was getting "stuck-up." I also told him I thought he was bashful. I didn't think of it as hurting him and merely said that because I thought he might act differently to me instead. He became peeved, and left town without saying goodby to me.

I feel very badly about this and would like you to tell me whether I should write and apologize for what I said. He is very good-looking and has plenty of money and I fear he will soon find someone else to occupy his time. I care not for his money, but for him. I will be very much obliged for your answer. (UNDECIDED)

SUMMERTIME fancies are often fickle. The chances are your acquaintance of last summer changed his attitude toward you, not because of anything you said, but because he lost interest. Possibly someone else attracted his fancy. Under these circumstances your upbraiding him did not revive his interest in you, nor will a letter of apology bring him back. The sensible course for you to do, my dear, is let matters drop for the present and interest yourself in other admirers. When you see him again, do not take him too seriously or eagerly. Where eagerness fails, good-humored indifference wins.

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

Mother—Why, Gertrude, you have enough butter on that one cracker for two.

Miss Pat

on her lips and eyes. She had leaned out to kiss her mother good by and had given a quick little tweak to Laura's hair.

How Laura tried to fasten on this happy moment! It passed. It gave way to a dark, forbidding image. She saw Pat, tall, slim, quiet, moving from her into a waste. Shadows loomed on the edge of it. They gathered ominously. Laura called out. But the girl didn't turn. She went on. She passed into the gray, shadowy silence.

Other pictures came . . . stark, relentless pictures. Often she saw the smashed plane with Pat and Guy dead or slowly dying in the wreckage. When her dreams were most pitiless she saw them creeping about, calling to each other making terrible little whimperings moans. In the night she would be awake seeing this; or she would start from some fitful sleep with Pat murmuring: "Mother, come, oh, mother!" Or Richard would be standing at the foot of the bed saying again and again with still awful quiet . . . "Lo . . . don't you hear her . . . won't you go . . .

During the day the memory of Richard's voice haunted her. She would go through life tortured with uncertainty. She would never know what had become of the girl—whether this death or some other more terrible, some dark, unnamable end, had come to Pat.

In time Brenda's kidnaping with which she could not connect Guy, but with which both he and Pat were involved, some other may have stolen the plane.

And what, though, all these days, had that other done to Pat?

The kindest she could hope was death. Death appeared not kind to Laura. She visualized Pat standing at Richard's side and running an impudent hand through her father's sandy curls.

How Richard loved her bright impudence! How often, lying in the dark, he had reached down a hand and closed it over Laura's, saying with that tender gladness: "Lo, dear, she's only teasing you. To me she tells the things that are deep in her heart. They're beautiful. Lo, like things that trembled not so long ago in yours." How he loved Pat! How wildly proud he was of every depth and weakness. He wanted her joyous, impudently glad.

No death would not seem kind to Laura. She read now of the vanished ransom—the child not returned. Ah—they were afraid to bring back the little boy? They would end them all—they had the money and would give no thought to any mothers' plea.

Unaware, she struck a hard harshly on the table. From the chair opposite Dicked black eyes regarded her with bitter reproach. "Say—what do you think, anyway? Pat's not crashed! Dad's gone! That's enough!" The boy's voice rose to a sob. He came and flung himself in Laura's arms. "You don't think Pat's dead—too? Oh gee, ma, that'd be an awful dirty wallop."

But Saturday passed. It brought no end to their tortured suspense. All r-ads from the city were guarded. Every possible suspect was held for question. A special detail kept guard at the flume. Police raced back and forth over the Ocean Shore rd.

Cranks sent letters. And every one had solutions and theories. The most fantastic explanations were listened to and tested.

The newspapers summed up the history of the kidnaping. They printed pictures of everyone in any way involved—large ones of Pat, Guy, Billy and Barbara Bryce—smaller ones of Laura and of Willam Bryce. They called upon the police to track down this vicious fiend—to find the child.

And the police, made ridiculous by the failure of their trap, retaliated by holding a score of innocent men. They gave third degree with reckless indiscretion. To no purpose.

Let the police realize they are dealing with no ordinary criminal, one editorial noted. "There are many unexplained angles to this crime. It will take real brain work to solve the mystery.

"A young man of excellent reputation appears the most likely solution. It should be remembered that Guy Elliott had a most promising future and if guilty he can never resume his place in this or any other community.

"Would a criminal clever enough to have taken that ransom from under the very noses of five men with leveled pistols be so indiscreet as to leave an abandoned auto and missing plane to connect him with the crime?

"If Elliott is guilty, it us have the proof. And quickly. We have heard enough of the Phantom. Phantoms do not kidnap."

Sunday afternoon, a detective watching at the flume felt his blood suddenly freeze. From that outlet two dark eyes looked upon him—two dark, beautiful eyes.

The Truth

ABOUT A SUCCESSFUL MARRIAGE

I HAVE had a letter from a girl in Chicago telling me that she has always read my articles, and that they have made her appreciate Henry. He is rather a reserved fellow generally and does not offer her his hip flask whenever they go out in his automobile.

She says she eventually discovered that he had a number of interesting things to talk about, and that they used to spend the most delightful Sundays discussing poetry and literature.

She never thought of him as a sweetheart. They were wonderful friends, until one day they chanced to be in some little danger together and he put his arm around her to protect her.

The sudden propinquity of the moment made her realize that Henry might be more than a congenial friend. So she asks me if she should marry him.

I am going to write and tell her that I think she would be quite safe in doing so. She has found in one young man the two really important ingredients for mutual happiness.

If she only has enough brain to keep these two qualities, in 50 years she can celebrate a perfect golden wedding.

The One-Piece Dinner

A GREAT DEAL has been said about the time-saving methods that will reduce the number of working hours in the kitchen and yet increase the attractiveness and palatability of the food. One helpful method is the serving of the so-called "one-piece dinner." By that is meant the main course of the meal is cooked and perhaps served from one casserole or serving dish accompanied by a crisp succulent salad and a toothsome dessert that are a real part of the well planned, nicely served meal.

Martha Lee

The one-piece meal may be cooked in the convenient waterless cooker, good old-fashioned iron Dutch oven, pressure cooker or in the oven.

To many homemakers the oven is unquestionably the solution of the cookery problem, especially if it is a thermostatically controlled oven, but a good oven thermometer will help in a measure to reduce failures and have all dishes "cooked to a turn."

The following is a typical one-piece dinner. If your family enjoy this inexpensive but satisfying type of dinner make a practice to serve one tueing other combinations if you wish) on days when you are tired of the kitchen and want to keep far away from it, but know your family must be served a well-prepared hot meal:

Creole Casserole
Lettuce Salad French Dressing
Hot Rolls
Apricot Bread Pudding
Coffee Milk

CREOLE CASSEROLE

2 tsps. salt.
½ tsp. pepper.
1 qt. can tomatoes.
½ tsp. celery salt or seeds.
4 to 5 medium-sized potatoes.

Wipe the meat with a damp cloth, cut into cubes for serving. Brown in bacon drippings in a hot skillet. Place seared meat in the bottom of a casserole. Cover with finely chopped peppers and onions. Pour over the tomatoes to which the seasoning has been added. Have the potatoes pared and cut into halves. Place the potatoes cut side down over the tomatoes. Cover the casserole, place in a slow oven, 275° F. In 4 hours return to serve your dinner.

MARTHA LEE.

People Who Talk to Themselves Not Abnormal

By LOUIS E. BISCH, M.D., Ph.D.,

THE impression that people who talk to themselves are abnormal probably arises from observation of the insane—some of whom actually do that.

Dr. L. E. Bisch

In point of fact, however, the majority of mentally deranged individuals do not talk to themselves. In all states of depression, for example, they appear strangely silent.

To be sure, it strikes one as peculiar to see a man muttering or holding a conversation with himself when walking along the street. We feel it is unnatural.

But it only appears unnatural because most people do not behave that way. It would be better to say it's unusual.

Men who have been marooned on islands, or have otherwise been shut off from civilization in isolated places for months and years, have later told how they developed the habit of talking to themselves. Had they not done so they might well-nigh have lost the ability to use language.

People who are sorely tried by some harrassing emotion are likely to rive vent to their suffering by indulging in soliloquy. One sees that on the stage sometimes, in plays.

In preparing for an important interview some people talk to themselves. Again we find it when we are very worried or distracted over an overwhelming grief.

Weeping, with occasional utterance of words, reading aloud, memorizing aloud, even singing alone, are all forms of talking to oneself.

Nearly all variety of talking without a listener are brought about by strong emotion plus deep concentration.

The person who talks to himself is oblivious to his surroundings because he is thinking hard on something that engrosses his attention. The thing he thinks about is important to him, hence he is emotional. More likely than not it is also perplexing and he is trying to see his way through it, striving to solve it.

Speech ideas arise in the brain. They are only thoughts, however, mental images, really—until the tongue, in conjunction with the whole mouth cavity which acts as a sounding board, makes sound, that we recognize as speech.

Just as the leg muscles are the motor mechanisms that transmute thoughts of locomotion into walking, so is the tongue the motor mechanism that translates thought of a different character into talk. When thoughts are strong and vivid motor mechanisms are always likely to come into play. The nerve impulses become so strong that an outlet is sought through action.

Humming a tune that arises in the mind and obsesses one is fundamentally a kind of talking to oneself. Yet people accept that as natural because it is so commonly met with.

Therefore, do not become alarmed if you find yourself talking to yourself nor jump to the conclusion that when you see someone else doing it that that person is abnormal.

If everybody talked to himself and we were, therefore, accustomed to it, we would never give it a second thought.

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN:

I SUGGEST that the hostess make her sister an assistant hostess and ask her to sit opposite her at the table. Then she will be able to direct the conversation at her end of the table and socially "keep the ball rolling." The hostess, if this plan is adopted will then ask her best friend to have the seat of honor at her right.

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN

Will you kindly inform me as to the correctness of the following:

"Will try and make the train that you and me used to get going to Plainfield."

You will please note that I have underlined the word me, and would like to know if it is used correctly? C. G.

THE sentence should read.

"Will try to make the train that you and I used to—" You and I constitute the compound subject of the adverbial phrase used to get, and the subject is in the nominative case. To test such a usage omit the other part of the compound subject, you. Then you can see that it would sound wrong "that me used to get."

J. M. F.: A.—It is not necessary to send announcements to parents B.—From your letter you have the intelligence to do everything that ought to be done in this case. C.—There are many things to fill up an evening's entertainment. After the entertainment, it seems to me you should have a buffet luncheon of salads, cakes, ices and coffee to round out the evening.

Correct Accessories Suitable as Gifts for Older Women

THE ensemble idea pervades everything. Even the modern Santa Claus presents gifts that bear relation to each other. Illustrated are suggestions as to what the older woman will want in the way of dress accessories.

The groups sketched here were planned with a black and white wardrobe in mind, besides being as smarter this season than black and white and still more dignified for the conservative, mature woman.

For the street costume, for hopping in town or for the board meeting, the jewelry will be very simple. Pearls—several strands, or one, longer-than-choker length are appropriate—and will probably be the only ornament the well dressed woman will wear on the street.

Her handbag should be chosen to match her shoes and for shopping probably will be of calfskin. Pin seal is also smart, with calf hose. The bag illustrated here is a copy of Patou's and is very flexible and roomy.

The smart umbrella this season is one without a border. The crooked handle is still good and is preferred by many, although the crystal straight handle is fashionable.

A decorative brooch, slightly smaller than those worn last year, will be an acceptable gift to the older women, for she can wear it in so many ways at the shoulder, to hold the belt, sometimes at the V of the neckline. A simple crystal and onyx necklace or bracelet (not sketched), would be acceptable too.

Again she will want to match her bag and her shoes, and, as for afternoon, she doubtless will wear a suede opera pump, give her a suede handbag to match. The bag can even match so far as the ornament on the lift and the ornament on the shoe are concerned.

Her gloves will be antelope and can match her stockings, which are this year slightly darker than we have been wearing before—or they can be either white or black. But the gloves must be longer, long enough to wrinkle over the wrist.

It is left to the older, sophisticated woman to carry off with greatest elegance the handsome jewels that are worn this season. Therefore, she may sumptuously be given an elaborate string of pearls, such as that sketched here, with a pendant that hangs down the back, if that is becoming.

A bracelet of brilliants and gilt tering pendant would be an appropriate paired gift. And someone should surely give her a bag—one that is large enough to hold her lorgnette, her vanity case and other small personal belongings. One of these is sketched. It is black silk embroidered with steel.

Other bags are made of gold cloth embroidered with steel pearls, which she will prefer if her costume is in harmony. The finishing touch to such an attractive ensemble would be a chiffon handkerchief with a very deep edge of real lace.

PEARLS are a jewelry classic that refuse to yield in the face of the greatest style changes. But they are worn in different ways. Pearl chokers have become fewer. The trend now is toward the found renewed importance. The many-strand pearl necklace is increasingly worn and it is time interesting with a pendant that is worn at the side or back of the uninspired back to [illegible] clasp takes various shapes with its new position of importance.

Pearl clips are also completely in the ensemble idea, having designed jewelry to be worn with garments in their exclusive set. The smart woman accepts a tasteful selection of pearls to be worn with her [illegible] of which is [illegible]

LAMONT WILL BE BOSTON SPEAKER

By FRANK R. MEJOON,
Financial Editor

More than a year has passed since a Secretary of Commerce has been heard addressing a gathering in Boston. Secretary Robert P. Lamont will be the principal speaker tomorrow at a meeting of Manufacturers and Distribution Census Conference of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. The publicity attachment that President Hoover was Secretary Lamont's immediate predecessor in office. He was an error readily detected in the Bay State, for in Massachusetts most people realize that William F. Whiting, big Holyoke manufacturer, became before Mr. Lamont. The Bay State still well represented in the department since Assistant Secretary of Commerce Dr. Julius H. Klein reg sters from Cambridge.

The last Secretary of Commerce to speak in Boston was Secretary Whiting. On October 16 of last year he delivered an address before a gathering in the busy Park Square district.

We disagree with the proponents of "Wall Street" view that the current dividend flood represents nothing but "water run past the mill wheels." There is no doubt but what the distributions of dividends made from past earnings, but most boards of directors would not consent to extra disbursements if they did not feel the business future was reasonably well assured.

The majority of financial writers still express doubt as to the continuance of copper prices at profitable levels, but some are already turning to the view expressed by this column last week when we announced disturbing talk to be largely mere "bear" propaganda overdone.

* * *

I am told the first of the high-priced stock rollers will be in operation in the financial centers next week. How soon they will be bullishly spirited in operation we cannot say at this time.

* * *

It is not the volume today that takes high speed tickers of Exchange to keep up with it, but the rapid-fire succession of small trades in the active issues. Some of these are clearly manipulative, but the majority are the result of the activity of the floor traders.

The $38,000,000 decrease in bro-kers' loans, announced after the close of the market yesterday, was not generally expected. Several successive weeks have now shown increases, and a rise is going to be in order very soon, with the public buying increasing. The current decrease, however, will be bullishly construed in many quarters, although brokers' loan figures are now a minor market factor.

At the adjourned monthly meet-ing of directors of American Metal Co., Ltd., Dr. Otto Stuesman, who has been associated with the company for 25 years and has been deputy-director for the past 12 years, was elected president to fill the vacancy caused by retirement of M. Loeb on June 30.

Wall St. writer says, "After every bad break since the Stock Exchange started business you hear it said it would be hard to have a worse break because of serious impairments in buying power.

"After the recent break you were told prices couldn't go up much because thousands of traders were tapped out. Yet the Dow-Jones railroad averages are up 2143 points from low of the year and industrial averages up 55.95.

* * *

"It has been the same in panics of the past. Many thought the impairment in purchasing power as result of actual losses and paper shrinkage would check a sustained upward movement. But they were wrong. Good stocks always come back and in time, make new highs."

* * *

"The fact is that many have no conception of the wealth or purchasing power of the country today. The average Wall St. trader is influenced by exaggerated reports of buying power by the several hundred thousand persons trading in the stock market".

So far some of the selling for tax purposes has been overdone, I consider. There was a lot of selling on some stocks were 20 to 50 points lower than on days ago. One trader who bought General Electric at $225 because he thought it cheap at that figure sold out at 180 for tax purposes, taking a loss of approximately $4500. Had he held the stock he could have sold out Wednesday at a profit of approximately $1300. Tax selling is unfortunate part of the time but not if the time, particularly when the trend is upward.

Intimate Look Into Minds of Big Employers

How They Feel and How They Are Planning for the Coming Year

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—This column tries to keep in intimate touch with men who direct the destinies of large enterprises. The spirit animating these men is revealed in expressions just obtained by letter or by word of mouth.

B. C. Forbes

It will interest you to read what they say. It will interest workers as well as employers. It will show every class of business men who do not think this glimpse into the present attitude of heads of enterprises employing large forces and controlling very vast expenditures. The fact that in many instances the statements were not made for the purpose of having them published does not detract from their value.

• • •

President H. F. Perkins, International Harvester Company: "It will not be our policy to announce our forward developments, as we don't believe the financial disturbance is going to materially affect unfavorably the agricultural situation."

President George S. Eccles, Montgomery Ward: "It is natural for us to be tremendously enthusiastic about the future of our company, particularly for the long-term development."

President Z. G. Simmons, Simmons Company: "The panic we are now going through successfully as a nation is my fifth, and I believe that this one will have the least effect on general business. What has happened is a marking-down of security values and not the destruction of property. I believe this will lay the foundation for a more diffused and better-balanced period of prosperity than the period we had before the smash."

President R. H. Millard, Southern California Edison: "Everything in connection with our company's affairs is in good shape. We have plenty of power, tremendous increase in new business, especially during the past three years, our cash position is very strong, and we have no floating debt. Our new construction budget for 1930 also has just been adopted and totals $22,000,000, compared with a little less than $18,000,000 in 1929."

President C. F. Kelley, Anaconda Copper: "We have been interested in the constructive work you have been doing through your column since what was originally a period of deflation assumed the proportions of panic and hysteria."

George O. Muhlfeld, Stone & Webster: "The Stone & Webster Engineering Corporation, including its subsidiary companies, have on their books just slightly under $100,000,000 of uncompleted construction work. This is the uncompleted balance to be spent out of orders now on hand totalling almost $160,000,000. Since the beginning of the stock market break we have taken on approximately $15,000,000 of new construction work."

President M. S. Sloan, New York Edison: "Our construction budget for the affiliated electric companies of New York for the year 1930 amounts to $75,000,000. We see nothing in the situation that should cause us to curtail any of our construction plans for the year 1930."

President A. E. Dickinson, Indiana Limestone Co.: "This company has ordered for the larger amount of fabricated work today than ever before in our history, and we are very optimistic over the future."

Robert Dollar, head of Dollar Steamship Lines: "I estimate our expenditures for new work and repairs for the coming year will be $13,000,000. We are about to let contracts for four other ships, which will amount to about $8,000,000. I was real pleased to see the efforts you have made to encourage confidence. The excitement throughout the country was entirely unwalled for because I was still am certain that business conditions throughout the United States could not be very much better than they are."

President A. P. Sloan, Jr., General Motors: "Our program for 1930 will be to maintain our equipment, as we always try to, at the highest stage of efficiency. Expenditures on improvements, expansions, additional equipment, etc., must be decided upon development of business as we see it from day to day or from month to month."

President H. T. Parson, Woolworth's: "We have already approved of over $2,000,000 expenditures on improvements for 1930, and this will be added to as the year advances."

Chairman B. C. Cobb, Commonwealth & Southern: "Our group of properties will probably expend for construction purposes next year somewhere between $75,000,000 and $80,000,000, about the same as last year. You can therefore see we are not going to take a step backward."

President Phillip G. Gossler, Columbia Gas: "Our 1930 budget will be about equal to the year $20,000,000. Our policy will be to continue to expand all properties as necessary to meet fully the demands of our constantly expanding services."

President Frank A. Ketchum, Graybar Electric: "We extend our facilities for distribution from year to year and expect to continue to do so at the same rate as in the past."

Nothing panicky about all that, is there?

CURB CONTROL IS AGAIN WON BY BULLS

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, Dec. 6 (AP)—Bull forces again regained control of the price movement on the Curb market today despite intermittent flurries of profit taking. Gains were, for the most part, moderate, however, but a sprinkling of leading shares were able to surpass the high points touched yesterday.

Price trends on this market were largely governed by trends on the "big board," the upturn on the Stock Exchange following announcement of the General Electric 4-for-1 splitup was immediately reflected here.

Leading utilities were again active, but progress toward higher levels was difficult and uncertain. Electric Bond & Share opened a point lower, recorded a 3-point gain around noon, then again turned downward. American Superpower moved up nearly 2 points during the forenoon, but likewise encountered selling.

American & Foreign Power warrants were strong, rising above 20 points, and such issues as Commonwealth Edison, American Gas and American Light and Traction also showed gains. United Light & Power A and Associated Gas A were inclined to sag early in the session, but were soon supported.

In the investment trust group Goldman-Sachs Trading was a strong feature, mounting more than 5 points. Pennroad again turned over in large volume, but failed to break out of its narrow trading range. Blue Ridge and Shenandoah both showed under realizing on yesterday's gains.

Industrials were highly irregular. Standard Oil of Kentucky was somewhat erratic issue, mounted 20 points. Midland Steel gained about six points at the end of Canada made substantial headway.

Babcock & Wilcox lost much of yesterday's gain in realizing and National Biscuit new stock eased. Mines were firm, Newmont gaining two points. Oils were steady, but decidedly dull. Cities Service was fairly active fractionally below 30.

$24,318,000 IN OFFERINGS

New York, Dec. 6 (AP)—New securities totaling $24,318,000, and consisting entirely of bonds, were placed on the market today by New York banking houses and syndicates.

A total of $269,645,927 was paid out this year in cash dividends on outstanding stocks of the Standard Oil group, an increase of $30,905,502 over the total of 1928, and of $60,645,927 over 1928, and establishing a new record.

The 1929 total was aided materially by increased payments by International Petroleum Co., Ltd., Imperial Oil, Ltd., Atlantic Refining Co. and the Anglo-American Oil Co.

While the value of contracts let for heavy construction and engineering work throughout the country in the first 11 months of the current year, reaching a total of $3,789,107,000, showed a 13 per cent increase over the same period in 1928, Dec. 16, 1929, to Dec. 15, 1930, is entered a 3 per cent drop in the November, 1928, total, Engineering News-Record reports. Contract awards last month were valued at $227,668,000, compared with $239,000,000 in 1928. Building work in November, 1929, totaled $306,029,000 as against $328,000,000 in November, 1928.

Treasury Issue Is on 3 1-8 P. C. Basis

By JOHN L. COOLEY

New York, Dec. 6 (AP)—The bond list held its gains in a moderately active session today. Another drop in brokers' loans on money dealers' reports find no quotations of 1½ to 4½ per cent for time loans were only nominal provided added confidence, but it was apparent that the market had absorbed a large proportion of investment funds available at the moment.

United States government interest in the broad demand on the announcement that the treasury was paying 3¾ per cent interest on its December notes of short-term certificates of indebtedness.

This is the lowest rate in more than two years and contrasts with the 5¾ coupon put on the June flotation and the 4½ rate on the September offering. The difference, of course, reflects the drastic reduction in money rates that was the result of the collapse of speculative activity.

Liberty fourth 4¼s, the Treasury 4¼s and the Treasury 3¼s made new 1929 highs in the early trading, but all listings were on an upward move.

Railroad bonds, in common with domestic utilities and industrials, held firm at only slight changes from yesterday's closing prices. A few 1929 highs were scored by issues in which floating supplies have been reduced by the demand of the last fortnight, but supply and demand were about equalized. The same conditions prevailed in the foreign group, where the French governments were fairly active.

Convertibles made narrow changes. There was a revival of activity in the American Telephone 4½s at slightly higher levels.

SAVINGS BANK LIFE GAINS

Commonwealth of Massachusetts Savings Bank Life Insurance continues to make notable gains. This system has completed seventy-one years of practical experience, and the sums now held by the banks in legal reserve and surplus for the benefit of policyholders exceed $4,000,000.

The savings banks do not employ solicitors and the moneys thus saved are returned to the policyholders in the form of annual dividends. The dividends paid to policyholders during the fiscal year just ended amounted to $567,035, and it is estimated that the dividends paid to policyholders during 1929 will exceed $600,000. A person who took out a straight life policy twenty-one years ago (being then age thirty) is now receiving a dividend equal to 62 per cent of his annual premium. This "over-the-counter" direct-to-the-consumer insurance is now recognized as the lowest cost level premium life insurance in the United States, and it is estimated that the dividends paid by policyholders during 1929 will exceed $600,000. A person who took out a straight life policy twenty-one years ago (being then age thirty) is now receiving a dividend equal to 62 per cent of his annual premium. This "over-the-counter" direct-to-the-consumer insurance is now recognized as the lowest cost level premium life insurance in the United States, and averages about 26 per cent cheaper than other forms of level premium legal reserve life insurance.

Savings bank life insurance is not State insurance. The State's participation in it consists of a very careful supervisory and administrative control in order to maintain uniformity of rates and procedure throughout all branches of the system. One hundred and ten banks throughout the State act as receiving stations for the receipt of premiums and the filing of applications thus making the benefits of the plan available to the people in all parts of the Commonwealth.

Headquarters are maintained at Room 297, State House, where rates and other information may be had. A printed sheet giving the names and addresses of the 110 banks identified with the system will be sent on request.

Oil Price Is Cut

Pittsburgh, Dec. 6—Corning crude has been cut 10 cents a barrel by Joseph Seep Purchasing Agent to $1.80 a barrel.

STEEL ORDERS CHANGE LITTLE

Present indications are that there will be little change in unfilled orders of the U. S. Steel Corporation as of Nov. 30 had to be published at noon next Tuesday.

There was a sharp falling off in the corporation's production in November. After stating at a rate of 80 per cent of capacity, there were weekly decreases in activities until the operations reached the low 68 per cent at the end of the period, where they still are being maintained.

Shipments of the Steel Corporation last month probably were not in excess of 970,000 tons. This is by far the smallest total of the current year and compares with estimates of 1,190,000 tons in October, 1,260,000 tons in September, 1,450,000 tons in August, 1,500,000 tons in July, 1,500,000 tons in June and 1,690,000 tons in May, the high record for deliveries in the history of the corporation.

Without making any allowances for adjustments it is probable that the incoming business of the corporation also was around 900,000 tons, the smallest amount received in a long time.

At the end of October the corporation had orders on its books for 1,084,562 tons. Even with a considerable falling off as a result of adjustments, there would be left slightly more than 1,000,000 tons on Nov. 30, or sufficient to carry the corporation into the second quarter of next year at the recently prevailing rate of production and shipments.

RADIO TRADE IS AHEAD OF '28

Chicago, Dec. 6—Westark Radio Stores, Inc., operating 60 retail establishments in the Central West and Greater New York, is buying plans for an enlarged program beginning soon after the new year.

Simon Wyker, president of Westark, said today that from January 15, the radio business can be expected to get its "second wind." The customary holiday prosperity in the trade has been even greater this year than previously, he stated.

"Westark has 60 stores, 23 of which are in Chicago and 24 in Greater New York, these latter being operated by Waldhalls, a division of our organization. The other stores are in Detroit, suburban Chicago and prosperous middle-western cities. New Westark stores have recently been opened in Hammond and Gary, Ind., and in Aurora and Waukegan, Ill. These have produced business entirely up to our expectations and increased our earnings.

"Stores have either been opened or will be opened in the near future by our company in Galesburg, Peoria, Springfield, Rockford and Joliet in Illinois; in Davenport and Des Moines, Iowa, and Madison, Wis.

"There is this psychology that applies in the radio business as it may forego other comforts if he has lost money in the stock market or otherwise been forced to revise his standard of living but a radio is one thing that has become standard equipment in the home and he refuses to be without one.

"To that fact we attribute a great deal of our merchandising success and have built up an organization known as the oldest and largest exclusive radio company in America."

Letters From Readers

Should Age Give Way to Youth?

Editor Boston American:

Do you think that Thomas A. Edison is right in saying "No, I'll never retire. It's unhealthy"?

Why cannot men different than Edison, swinging on swivel chairs in highly upholstered offices, make room for younger men?

I'm out of a job. There are too many old men holding down positions in the business world that should be glad to retire.

I'd like to hear from them in your column. What they have to say for themselves.

JOB SEEKER.

Is It a Tomb? We Wonder

Editor Boston American:

Can any of your readers tell me if that is a tomb we see between two tall buildings nearly opposite of Huntington ave. station of the Boston & Albany. It shows the name of "Clark." Commuters on the railroad have been speculating about it, but not so light. Why should a tomb remain there in such an unsightly location?

HAROLD.

Points Out Girl's Wifely Qualities

Editor Boston American:

One editor's letter has attracted my attention. She was "Is the Modern Girl Not Fit for Wife." The title is correct, I am a modern girl and I know that it would be much too hard for me to be a real good wife. But he is mistaken by saying that he can't find a modern girl for a wife. For instance, I have a roommate, she doesn't smoke or drink nor approve of wild parties. Although she isn't good-looking, she is plump. But I betmy life she would make a wonderful wife for any man. We called her a flat tire, etc., but that didn't help us to have her join our parties. We don't feel she is too good for this word, she ought to go to a convent. She may, because he never intends to find a real good man. So you see there are a few girls left, but you've got to look hard to find them.

WANDA S.

We Never Have Been There

Editor Boston American:

Will you please answer in the People's Column why a man who weighs 200 pounds on this earth only weighs 35 pounds on the moon?

Prof Harlow Shapley of Harvard University, in charge of the department of astronomy, said this not long ago.

Does a man turn into cheese when there? They say that the moon is made of green cheese. But seriously now, why does a man fade away in the moon and why does that professor at Clark University want to hit this planet with a rocket?

Raise Your Own Chickens

Editor Boston American:

In your paper a short time ago you gave notice that the scientists were ready to produce the wingless chicken. This is about to be done by a certain process of cross-breeding.

I know something about chickens, having kept them for years, and I would like to know what mother will do in many families, who has to take the wing on all occasions when chicken is served. This is no in our family.

She does not like the drumstick What is the use of wingless chick en?

Puts Dry Law in Witchcraft Class

Editor Boston American:

Before banning tea, coffee and tobacco (as Senator Brookhart states in time will be banned by constitutional amendments) I would suggest the removal of the statue of Liberty from New York hbor.

However, I believe that in years to come, prohibition will be regarded with just as much horror and disgust as the burning of witches is in Salem today.

Says Many Women Marry After 25

Editor Boston American:

May I add my little to that statement which appeared in the Boston press about a woman who, if she did not get married at 25, might as well give marriage up.

This is all nonsense. Here is the real scale of marriageable ages: After 25, 30, 35, 40, 45. You just show the marriage intentions and see if this is not correct, more than the other statements.

Churches Deny They Have Lobby

Chicago, Dec. 6—Executive leaders of the Federal Council of Churches declared in a statement that their council of Protestant denominations never had maintained a lobby in Washington, D. C.

The executive committee was informed by Dr. Charles C. MacFarland, secretary, that the council of churches was a victim of a "widespread propaganda for the purpose of injuring movements for international peace and general social progress."

Prohibit Coasting on Arlington Hills

Danger of coasting down the hills on streets leading into Massachusetts ave., Arlington, has caused the selectmen of that town to prohibit coasting. It is expected that the selectmen will set aside certain streets in the town for coasting, as they did a year ago.

The recent snow has provided excellent coasting, and it is expected that there will be many that youngsters are using the pavements for skating rinks.

TRAFFIC TUBE DELAYED BY NEW PLAN

That the $16,000,000 East Boston traffic tunnel is unlikely to be started this year was indicated when Vice-Chairman Henry I. Harriman of the Metropolitan division of planning revealed that the tunnel plan which is being worked out by experts will not be ready for another week when it will be sent to the War Department at Washington for approval.

The plan sanctioned by the Secretary of War has been modified since by the local experts and as a result the modified plan must be given the governmental endorsement before actual work can start.

Harriman stated that the Governor only took control of the tunnel in that it shall not interfere with navigation in the harbor and that it shall be driven deep enough to permit the Government in the future to dredge a 40-foot channel.

He explained that the new plan does not change the depth of the tunnel and that it changes the location by only about 100 feet to remove the curve which was provided in the first plan.

Should Ignore Sec. Wilbur

Congress Ought to Pass Pending Educational Bill Despite Opposition of Subsidized Head of Private University

"WE cannot rise higher than our source," confesses Mr. Wilbur in his first annual report as Secretary of the Interior.

Seemingly this is sadly so in the case of Secretary Wilbur.

SECRETARY WILBUR OPPOSES THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION BECAUSE HE IS UNABLE TO VIEW PUBLIC EDUCATION FROM THE STANDPOINT OF THE PLAIN PEOPLE OF THIS COUNTRY WHO ARE ITS CHIEF BENEFICIARIES.

Secretary Wilbur opposes giving to education an equal place in the Cabinet of the President with that now held by agriculture, commerce, and labor because he views public education from the standpoint of the SUBSIDIZED HEAD of a highly endowed private university.

It is as the spokesman of private education for private interests that he says that "a department of education similar to the other departments of the government is not required."

It is in the same capacity that he insults the national universities at West Point and Annapolis by snobbishly asserting that "there have, fortunately, been no national universities."

IT IS IN THE SAME CAPACITY THAT HE REFLECTS UPON THE WORK OF STATE UNIVERSITIES THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY BY INSISTING THAT THEIR "CONSTANT STIMULATION" COMES FROM "THESE PRIVATE INSTITUTIONS" OF ONE OF WHICH HE IS STILL THE PRESIDENT ON LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

In view of his confession in his annual report that "we cannot rise higher than our source" and this demonstration that he cannot rise high enough to view public education from the standpoint of the plain people instead of from the presidential chair of a privately endowed university, all recommendations in regard to education made by Secretary Wilbur ought to be ignored by Congress.

Let the Congress ignore the opposition of Secretary Wilbur to effective federal leadership in the promotion of education by the several states and PASS THE PENDING BILL ESTABLISHING A DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION WHICH WOULD BE HEADED NOT BY SECRETARY WILBUR BUT BY A SECRETARY OF EDUCATION IN GENUINE SYMPATHY WITH PUBLIC EDUCATION.

Heavyweight—Flyweight

Very Little BRAIN Weight

Copyright, 1929

HERE you see the giant Italian prize fighter, Carnera, who, recently sailing from Italy, had to have a berth on the steamer enlarged to accommodate his bulk.

The impression made by the huge Italian is that he would probably need better legs to move around rapidly enough to make his fighting interesting.

But all of that is unimportant.

As has occasionally been remarked here, the orang-utan, a good deal smaller than the "flyweight," turned loose in the room with the big and little prize fighters would tear them both to pieces at his leisure.

As for a gorilla, he'd wrap one hand around the Italian heavyweight's neck, and the next act would be a funeral.

One thing very interesting about this picture is the wisdom of Providence in keeping all of us human beings about the same shape and size.

The biggest dogs are mated, and huge St. Bernards and Great Danes are produced.

The little dogs are mated and the tiniest samples of "man's best friend" come into the world.

But the wisdom of Providence prevents anything of that kind happening to human beings.

And what applies to the body applies also to the intelligence.

The brilliant man marries the dull woman, and vice versa. And so the average of human intelligence is kept about on a level, varied here and there, magnificently, by the sudden, unexplainable appearance of GENIUS.

Thanks to nature's wisdom in keeping our bodies and our brains about the same, the 1,800,000,000 of us here on earth look exactly alike to the angels, probably, and the race moves forward evenly.

There is no super race living and breeding apart to dominate the masses of inferior human beings.

The genius of today may have a fool for a son.

The humble peasant woman may give birth to a man of colossal genius, as did the unmarried peasant mother of Leonardo da Vinci, or the humble mother of William the Conqueror, unmarried when he was born. The humble daughter of the tanner, seen by the Duke of Normandy washing clothes in the brook, became the mother of William the Conqueror, conqueror of England.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—Thoughts while strolling: Sale sign: "We tried, we failed, we quit!" Harry Salpeter, the literary critic, Asbury Park dress that wheeze and waddle. Always a line to see Lon Chaney. A baby Zep idles across the sky. Sidney Boggis, Ziegfeld's valet, who used to valet Clyde Fitch.

John Held, Jr., a Salt Lake city boy, who made good in the city. The Belasco Theater always attracts a classy audience. Edwin Balmer, the magazine editor who writes novels, too. The thin crowds in brokerage board rooms. Madam Frances, the dressmaker. And her flaming red hair.

Edna Ferber's swinging stride. Those wicked looking blondes with wide hats and drop earrings. A taxi tips into an excavation and everybody scrambles out laughing. Senator Royal S. Copeland, Coast boy, sign: "See America from an arm chair." The old punch drunk fighter who stops along the street to shadow box.

Hip length wraps for ladies. Billy B. Van, the comedian, now a New Hampshire soap manufacturer. And doing well. Alfred Cheney Johnston, who gained fame and wealth photographing stage beauties. The marble mansions of chain store millionaires.

Finley J. Shepard's bright necktics. Fashionably dressed crowds flocking to a collection of old jeans. Snuff boxes. Bango clocks. Hand painted fans. The collegiate at the Plaza around tea time. Corey Ford, the humorist. The Oriental rug dealer who pedals to and from his shop on a white bicycle.

Those soiled Grecian urns that flank grilled entrances. Roaming eyes and pallid cheeks splotched red. Wouldn't women look funny with Adam's Apple? The rich clubman who returned from the Canadian wilds after the Wall Street shakeup to find himself broke. And new clerks in a book shop.

Sam H. Harris and George M. Cohan. Once partners, still pals. And lunch together once a week. The hard faced women in magnificent limousines who burn up cigarettes in quick inhalations. Sure-footed youths who slip through heavy traffic like quicksilver.

Fashion pirates cost exclusive shops on Fifth, Madison and Park avenue fortunes yearly. There is no legal recourse for such thefting. Style swipers are usually young girls with art school experience, who visit the smart ateliers as customers and secretly sketch the latest designs and importations of hats, gowns, frocks, etc. These are quickly produced by cheaper firms. Often a new 5th avenue style shown only privately is in 6th ave. windows 48 hours later.

The most adroit of the style snatchers is the daughter of a famous, aristocratic but impoverished family. She was an art student when the family fortune vanished and is retained by a group of copyists who pay her $20,000 a year.

A red-shirted ditch digger swinging a pick in east 56th st. yesterday afternoon felt a tap on the shoulder. He looked up in the face of a girl who wanted a light for her cigarette from his pipe. She got it and walked on while he mumbled: "Well, I'm a (something-that-can't-be-printed-here)!"

The audacious lady getting her clothes tight fits under the old theory that people get what they go after. It should be a spur to some of us weaklings who have been trying for years to get a New York waiter to bring coffee with the dinner.

And—just a brief pause for a station announcement.—William MacHarg dropped in with news that a little store on Forty-Second st. has coconut flag candy, penny blackjack licorice strips and banana shaped marshmallows. Yum! Yum!

"It strikes me," writes L. F. D., "that to accept seats to a theater and knock a show is a breach of etiquette."

If you mean me, don't be bothered. I've breached all the etiquettes, including four in the Scandinavian. I'm just a breeches boy.

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

EACH of the three canals has at one end a slight swelling, the ampulla. It is here that the actual sense-cells are located. In each ampulla there is a cluster of cells with long hair-like processes projecting into the cavity of the canal and continuous below with nerve fibres.

H. G. Wells

Now, suppose that the head is suddenly moved horizontally from left to right—i.e., in the plane of the lateral canal (a sudden backward glance over the shoulder would involve such a movement). The labyrinth, as we have seen, is full as a lymph-like fluid, and when the head is suddenly moved the inertia of this fluid will make it lag a little behind the movements of the labyrinth itself.

There will be a slight circulation of fluid in the lateral canal, and therefore, a bending of the delicate hairs on the sense-cells in the ampulla. This bending stimulates the cells and causes them to dispatch nervous impulses, which are interpreted by the brain as a sensation of horizontal movement.

Now, since the three canals lie in planes at right angles to each other, corresponding to the three dimensions space, any movement of the head will bring about a circulation of fluid in one or more of the canals, and the direction of the movement will determine exactly the relative amount of disturbance in each of the three.

That is to say, any movement, if it is vigorous enough, will cause a regulation of the sense-cells in the ampullae, and by comparing the strength of disturbance in each of the three the brain is able to judge the direction of the movement. Without this information we should be helpless when we tried to walk or run.

It will be noticed that the working of the apparatus depends on the inertia of the fluid in the canals. It therefore detects, not constant uniform motion, but accelerations and retardations.

If we are seated in a railway carriage with the blinds pulled down, as long as the train travels at constant speed we cannot feel whether we are facing the engine or not; but when the train slows down or speeds up the change in velocity is clearly felt.

Suppose that we spin round for some minutes, swiftly and regularly. At first, as we accelerate, the fluid in our labyrinths lags a little, and we get the sensation of twisting round; but after a little time, as a result of its friction against the walls, its circulation ceases and it comes to move exactly as the surrounding labyrinths do.

Now, suppose that we stop abruptly. The inertia of the fluid will work in the usual way; it will tend to go on moving, and will circulate for a little time in the canals after we have come to rest. Evidently, it will now bend the sensitive hairs in the opposite direction, and we get the illusion of rotating in the reverse direction to that in which we were spinning.

By putting our forehead down on to the top of a walking-stick and then moving round it as fast as we can, we can get giddy in a vertical instead of a horizontal plane.

On the other hand, there are sense-organs in the ear that apparently do not conform to the general law of contrast. On the wall of the vestibule there are two patches of sensitive cells, one patch lying in a vertical plane and the other in a horizontal plane. The structure of these cells is essentially like that of the sense-cells in the ampullae, but in among their hairlike processes there are tiny nodules of carbonate of lime, called otoliths.

The otoliths are constantly pressing on the surrounding hairs, and they constantly stimulate the sense-cells with an intensity depending on the direction of their pressure. Since this direction depends on the position of the head (i.e. on its inclination to the vertical), the stimulation of the cells will also depend on the position of the head.

In this way, by streams of impulses from the sense-patches in the vestibule, the brain is constantly informed about the inclination of the head.

Sec. 6. THE NERVOUS MECHANISM AND THE BRAIN

BUT now we are in a position to state certain general ideas about the working of the behavior-system in the animal bodies we have made our opening subjects of study. We have considered the motor mechanism and the organs of sensation. Their action is correlated.

To Be Continued Tomorrow

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

A WOMAN doesn't seem to think it's a party these days, unless she can manage to get everybody talking about something vitally interesting—and then turn on the radio loud enough to drown them out.

A man doesn't give his wife a new fur coat for Christmas in order to keep her warm, dear heart—he gives it to her in order to keep her QUIET.

In these days, a bigamist is merely a man who attempts to save time by trying out two wives concurrently, instead of trying them out consecutively.

All the world's beautiful DREAMS seem to be going blah, at once!

The dream that the small speculator could clean up a fortune in Wall Street; that prohibition would produce a new generation that would "not know the taste of alcohol"; and that feminism would make women too sensible ever to go back to corsets!

Deferring the honeymoon trip until you can afford it, is the modern practical custom; but, in these progressive times, a belated honeymoon is apt to run right into the divorce.

A machine has been invented, which hands you a collar button, when you drop in a penny. And now, if they can invent one that will count the laundry and get up and turn on the steam-heat, NO man will think that he needs a wife.

A woman grows to understand the real meaning of love; but a man appears to be perfectly satisfied with the same half-baked emotions, at forty as at twenty.

Sometimes, a husband turns out to be a total stranger, who only vaguely resembles the glorious being you fell in love with.

Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

ANN pins a rose against her hair,
Her grandma cautions, "Child, beware;
Young lads can promise splendid things,
But love has swift and ready wings!"

His grandsire quavers, "Robert, choose
Not one who sets your head awhirl!"

The world takes on a golden mist;
Fair things grow fairer, sweets more sweet
Whenever Ann and Robert meet.

Besides, what can old people know
Of love, that sets the stars aglow?
And so they wed for love alone,
As did their forbears, in years flown.

Three-Minute Journeys

By TEMPLE MANNING

CORNWALL is extremely rugged, especially along the coast. The coast towns, therefore, are seldom built on level ground, but cling to the sides of the cliffs which rise up from the sea. It is not unusual, in fact, to find some houses so built that their backdoors open right onto the sea, with a "Jacob's ladder" dropping down to permit easy access to boats.

One of the most picturesque of all the Cornish towns is Clovelly by far the most famous village of its size in all England. Clovelly is a hillside town and its main street—really its only street!—is little more than a flight of stairs—called, incidentally, the "Golden Stairs"—up and down which go donkey teams pulling sledges on which provisions and freight are hauled up into town from the harbor. The houses facing the street which, necessarily, hairpins back and forth up the cliff, are built of stone with the upper floors of wood or a sort of stucco. Each has a porch extending across the front with entrance steps at one end. Usually there are only two or three steps from the street up to the porch, but at the other end the porch is some six feet above the street. This will give you some idea of the steepness of the "Golden Stairs."

Truro tits name reminding us of our own Cape Cod) is another interesting little Cornish town. Its chief monument is its cathedral. And this cathedral suffers the distinction of having a nave which is six feet out of line. After the foundations had been laid, the townspeople demanded that work be stopped as it appeared that the cathedral would cut through the market place. Although such lack of reverence may have astounded the churchmen, they acceded to the demands and "bent" their cathedral.

As one goes along the Cornish coast one will often see an isolated cottage. Generally, these are built of stone, whitewashed and topped with a thatched roof. And possibly one will see the mistress, a good-natured looking little old lady with a shawl over her head and shoulders, smiling at you through the wrinkles of her weather-beaten face. Really a cheerful lot, these Cornish, but wedded to their country and extremely unhappy when forced to immigrate.
